GERMANY DRAFTS FINAL INSTRUCTIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, via Amsterdam, Feb. 19.—Final instructions for Ambassador von Bernstorff with reference to the submarine question were drafted by officials of the American Bureau of the German foreign office today and submitted to Foreign Secretary von Jagow for his approval. After ratification by Herr van Jagow and Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, they will be forwarded to Washington.

It is expected that by Tuesday the representative of the German government in the American capital will have received these instructions and on that or the following day he will again take up the Lusitania matter with Secretary of State Lansing.

The German press is again taking marked interest in the Lusitania issue and the general submarine question, particularly with reference to the sinking of armed merchantmen. The Cologne Gazette says today:

"Negotiations with America are incomplete, but within a week our submarine war against armed merchantmen begins. We will allow nobody to curtail our rights nor will we bother about the safety of reckless, crazy neutrals traveling on English ships.

"He who sits on a gunpowder barrel with a lighted cigar in his mouth must not complain if he comes to grief."

MAJOR EVERETT GUEST OF EMPLOYES

The third banquet of the employes of the Everett & Treadwell Company, tendered to Major James H. Everett, president of the company, was held Friday evening at the Stuyvesant and was one of the most enjoyable yet held by the company's employes. Covers were laid for twenty-nine.

The dinner was faultlessly served, as usual, and during the dinner Grafanola music was kindly furnished by the L. B. Van Wagonen Company. The menu was as follows:

Oyster Cocktail.
Bouillon en Tasse.
Celeri. Queen Olives. Radishes.
Salted Almonds.
Supreme Kennebec Salmon, Hollandaise
Salade Cucumbers.
Pommes de Terre, Duchesse.
Croquettes of Sweetbread.
Aux Petit Pois.
Sherbet.
Roast Ulster County Turkey.
Cranberry Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes.
Small String Beans.
Salad a la Stuyvesant.
Ice Cream. Assorted Cakes.
Coffee.

After the dinner, brief speeches were made by a number of those present, who spoke of their appreciation of Major Everett and the good wishes which were the testimonial of his employes. Major Everett responded feelingly and spoke of the pleasure which it gave him to have the employes gathered together on such a festive occasion. Newton H. Fessenden, attorney for the company, who was one of the guests, also spoke in glowing terms of Major Everett and the honorably position he has for so long a time occupied in the community.

The employe who has been with the company for the longest period is Hiram Bell, who has been connected with the present company and its predecessor, the firm of Everett & Treadwell, for 34 years. Others with long records are L. D. McLane and William Marthis, 26 years each; W. D. Pettinger and Edgar Reynolds, 23 years.

Officers—Major James H. Everett, president; Louis B. Basten, vice president; Cornelius S. Treadwell, treasurer; W. H. Niles, secretary.

Employes—Van Dyke Basten, F. S. Brown, Hiram Bell, Walter Camp, Milton Cole, David Hinkley, Jacob Hogan, Lewis Keator, William Marthis, John Montanye, Jesse Osterhoudt, Edgar Reynolds, William Schoonmaker, Bernard Hamilton, John Hohman, Eugene Kurau, L. D. McLane, Frank Newkirk, W. D. Pettinger, Richard Schick, James W. Scott, Melville Stewart, Alfred Van Valkenburgh, Charles Wagner, George Wells, Howard Wilbur, Miss Jeannette T. Dressel, Miss May M. Mockabee, Miss Maud L. Curry, Miss Ethel S. Martin.

Not Mr. Messinger's Fault.

Samuel J. Messinger was kept busy today explaining why he cannot, with any degree of business safety, sell two pounds of spare ribs for 14 cents. Although such an offer was made in his Friday advertisement, the fault was not Mr. Messinger's. The error was made through oversight by a compositor, and Mr. Messinger is in no way to blame. Patrons who have traded at Mr. Messinger's market for years know that all his advertised claims ring with sincerity and honesty of purpose. The price of spare ribs should have been given as 14 cents a pound.

GOETHALS REPORT ON PANAMA GRAFT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The suppressed report of Major General George W. Goethals dealing with the Panama land frauds whereby the United States will pay $18,000,000 for land worth $1,000,000, today was placed in the possession of the house canals committee. In the bald language of a soldier who resented his government being "robbed" General Goethals set forth that "must summary representations" to the Panama republic would be justified by the "robbery" of the United States. He very flatly charged that "palpable perjury" and "scandal" have marked the land awards of the joint land commission. This report, covering the last fiscal year, was "suppressed" for international reasons as the result of an agreement between the state and war departments.

General Goethals told the committee that he had outlined all of the land deals on the isthmus in his report when he submitted it last summer, but that after the report reached the war department all of this matter had been "expunged." He explained at a previous hearing, when he told of the suppression, that he was before the committee to discuss the land commission and that his "conscience was clear" in the matter of making the information public. He has now submitted the report in manuscript form, and it clearly shows the markings of the censor. Each part is carefully marked out in pencil, and on each page a memorandum shows referring to "five-B-21, Sept. 21, 1915," evidently the department file giving the reasons for the suppression of the report.

The report attacked the Panama joint land commission in no uncertain terms. The commission has charge of the settlement of all land claims against this government in the canal zone, and General Goethals a week ago told the committee its awards were $16,000,000 or $17,000,000 over the true value of the land. He said the commission bitterly opposed the administrative officials of the government in the canal zone.

Charges of oppressions, threats and frauds, the suppressed report says, "were made against the government's agents and the land inspectors by claimants and their attorneys, and were supported by the testimony of the former, who have combined against the government to extort money from it. The atmosphere here (in Panama) is quite unfriendly to the United States, the evident intention being to get all that is possible by any means that can be employed, and, in many cases, the most palpable perjury is committed by the claimants and their witnesses.

"The important issue involved is something more than money. It affects the good name of our government and its agents."

The report sets forth a letter written by the Panama commissioners to the secretary of foreign relations of Panama last June, charging that the administrative officials of the United States on the isthmus under valued land. The American members of the commission objected to this letter, the report said. "On account of this action on the part of the Panama commissioners," said the report, "our government would be justified in making to the Panama government the most summary representations with respect to them."

The Panama commissioners insisted that the commission itself should inspect all land for which compensation was claimed.

"The Panama members of the commission," continued the report, "are not actuated by sincerity. Personal inspection of all property would prolong the sittings of the commission and consequently substantially increase the remuneration of the members. It is much more probable that this, rather than zeal for the protection of claimants, is their impelling motive."

The report set forth in detail extravagant awards made to claimants and gave a list of 15 claimants in one village who were paid $15,270, on land valued by the administrative officials at $759.62. According to the report lawyers representing land claimants collected fifty per cent of the money awarded their clients on land claims.

FALL OF DURAZZO SEEMS IMMINENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Feb. 19.—Durazzo, the capital of Albania, has been surrounded on three sides by Austro-Hungarian troops and it is feared that the city will soon fall beneath the pounding of heavy artillery which the invaders are moving to their front. Storms and bad roads make the transportation of guns and ammunition difficult, but under the spur of German officers the Austrians are laboring with all their strength to bring the city beneath the fire of their siege guns without delay.

A price has been set upon the head of Essad Pasha, the president of Albania government and has been proclaimed "an outlaw and a traitor" by the Turkish government.

Kavaya, eight miles southwest of Durazzo, is now in the possession of the Austrians.

MECHANICS' NEW HOME DEDICATED

Large Attendance of Members and Friends of Charles DeWitt Council—History of the Organization and List of Charter Members.

The handsome new home on Henry street of Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Order of United American Mechanics was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies on Friday evening, and at the close of the dedication ceremonies refreshments were served and a smoker held. Able addresses by Charles S. Miles of Middletown, the state vice councilor, Mayor Canfield, the Rev. George M. Cranston, and a review by E. N. Snow of the work of the organization since its institution made the session a noteworthy one.

The new home of the order is the handsome brick building that formerly housed the old Standard Telephone Company during the last years of its existence, until it was taken over by the New York Telephone Company, from whom it was bought by the order. The price paid for the building was $9,000 and the alterations that were found necessary to be made to fit the building for the present purpose cost at least a thousand dollars more. At the present time the order has one of the finest homes in New York state and has a right to feel proud of the efforts it exerted to secure the new building.

The Dedication Exercises.

Rufus Kelder, a trustee of the council, presided as master of ceremonies. During the evening a special musical program was rendered by an orchestra composed of Miss Kegler at the piano, City Marshal Hoag at the drums, and Edward Post, violinist.

The vocal numbers on the program were given by Ralph Deyo, G. Richter Zeliff and Alva Buley. Mrs. Zeliff was accompanist.

After a selection by the orchestra, the dedication prayer was delivered by the Rev. Dr. R. C. Dodds, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

The address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Canfield, who paid a high tribute to the order and the principles on which it was founded and he complimented the local council on the work it had accomplished for good in this city.

State Vice Councillor Charles S. Miles of Middletown brought the greetings of the state officers to the local council and he also spoke glowingly on the principles of the order. He said that love of country and flag animated the breast of every true Mechanic and that the principles of the order taught only the highest patriotism to its members.

After a review of the history of the order by Mr. Snow, the dedication address was delivered by the Rev. George M. Cranston, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, who gave one of the most eloquent and scholarly addresses ever heard by the members of the council.

Instituted May 7, 1897.

E. N. Snow, who delivered the history of the council, said that the late Henry B. Ingram was the man who dreamed a dream of the instituting of a local council of American Mechanics and it was through Mr. Ingram's efforts that Charles DeWitt Council was instituted on May 7, 1897, in Odd Fellows' Hall. The institution exercises were in charge of State Councillor Richard Bush and State Secretary Lewis F. Page, and all the officers and about forty members of Highland Council, No. 5, of Newburgh, were present.

Fifty-eight Charter Members.

The council was instituted with fifty-eight charter members of which number twelve are dead and nine have been dropped.

The charter members were: Frank D. Whitbeck, Watson O. Eckert, W. H. Woolheater, William N. Pultz, Frank D. Winne, Moses Van Vliet, John Slater, George S. Emmet, William R. Hutton, J. A. Woolheater, Levi Hasbrouck, Herman M. Chapman, Henry B. Wesley, Jewett D. Whitbeck, H. Arthur Traphagen, William Slater, Henry B. Ingram, William R. Tubby, Seymour Tubby, Charles Buchholz, Frank H. Humphrey, Peter Measter, D. Eugene Pelham, Judson S. Neice, Michael Leibig, William Hinkley, Jr., Dr. J. D. W. Dumond, John Holden, Harvey E. Yates, Edgar E. Becker, Jerome C. Covert, Arthur Benjamin, William Russel, Harry Jones, Norwood Hubbel, Charles L. Elmendorf, George E. Ean, Otis Montgomery, E. N. Snow, Roney Crum, George Holsopple, Andrew Yeapel, Cilbert Barley, William Doughty, Frank Fish, Rufus Kelder, Charles Breitenbucher, Charles H. Knight, Dr. George Parker Holden, Oliver Ham, Henry C. Van Aken, Samuel F. Chappel, Augustus Short.

Of the total number of charter members there are thirty-seven who are still active in the work of the council.

The dues were placed at 50 cents and the initiation fee of $2.

The Council's First Officers.

The first officers of the new council were: Junior past councilor, Peter Measter; councilor, F. H. Humphrey; vice councilor, H. A. Traphagen; recording secretary, H. B. Wesley; financial secretary, Henry B. Ingram; treasurer, W. D. Eckert; warden, D. E. Pelham; conductor, W. R. Tubby; inside sentinel, F. D. Whitbeck; outside sentinel, Seymour Tubby; trustee for 18 months, William N. Pultz; trustee, 12 months, F. D. Winne; trustee, 6 months, George P. Holden.

The Council's First Fund.

After the institution supper was served at William's Hotel, that stood on the site of the present Y. M. C. A. The council opened an account in a savings bank a few days later depositing $25.

Meeting nights were fixed on the first, third and fifth Fridays of the month, and a committee on by laws consisting of Wesley, Measter and Ingram were appointed to draft same.

The council was admitted to membership in the Junior American Benefit Association on May 20 of that year.

In June the balance of the charter members were initiated. They were James A. Powell, Wellington C. Shultis, Ira Whitbeck, George H. Wolf and John P. Eidman.

January Had 80 Members.

The order gradually grew and by the first of January of the following year had about 80 members on the roll.

Lodge Room Changed.

On March 29, 1904 the council moved to Kennedy Hall on Broadway where they remained until they purchased the present new home.

Other Councils Instituted.

The local council instituted several other councils. On October 8, 1897 the Poughkeepsie council was instituted; on June 7, 1899 the Saugerties council, and about 1900 the Ely S. Parker Council of Ellenville.

Presented Flag to Industrial Home.

On May 6, 1898, the council presented a pole and flag to the Industrial Home. The home was then located on central Broadway and interesting ceremonies attended the presentation.

Other Acts of Council.

When the present Y. M. C. A. building was built the council presented the building fund with $100. The council also presented the new high school with a Bible.

Benefits Paid Out.

Mr. Snow called attention to the fact that the council in 1914-15 paid out $1,000 in deaths and $700 in sick benefits.

Has Nearly 600 Members.

The council now has a membership of nearly 600 members and is still growing. It is one of the most important organizations in Kingston today and numbers among its members some of the best men of this city.

Well Attended.

The dedication ceremonies Friday evening were well attended. At the close a smoker an social hour was enjoyed. The event will long be remembered by those who attended.

OUR WRETCHED MAIL SERVICE

Congressman Ward Trying to Have Something Done to Stop Senseless Delays in Local Mails Between Hudson River Towns.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Congressman Charles B. Ward is taking up with the Second Assistant Postmaster General the matter of better mail service between river towns in Ulster county. In referring this matter to the congressman the Chamber of Commerce of Kingston pointed out that between Rondout and Rhinecliff there was only one mail service a day, the ferry carrying mail leaving Rondout at 12:30 p. m., and returning at 2 p. m. In comparison to this very limited service it was shown that between Newburgh and Beacon ten round trips were made every day. The Kingston men are asking for three daily round trips between Rondout and Rhinecliff. The poor service that Kingston is receiving in this particular is shown by the fact that mail leaving Kingston, if it does not catch the 12:30 trip, is sent to Albany and then comes down on the other side of the river to Poughkeepsie, causing a very great delay that could easily be alleviated if there were better service in carrying the mail across the river at Rondout and Rhinecliff.

The justice of the contention of Kingston's Chamber of Commerce is borne out by the facts and conditions and Congressman Ward will co-operate in every way to have the service remedied.

Congressman Ward has sent a letter to the commanders of all the Grand Army Posts in this congressional district reminding them that the federal government will upon application furnish headstones for unmarked graves of soldiers, sailors and marines who served in any army or navy of the United States during any war or insurrection (including the revolution) whether regular or volunteer and whether they died in the service or since their muster out or discharge therefrom. In his letter the congresman states to the commanders: "If there are any such unmarked graves of soldiers in your vicinity on which you believe a government headstone should be erected, I would appreciate it if you would write me so that I might have proper application blank forwarded to you for making the request."

The state laws also make provision for the erection of such headstones but if action is taken under the state laws the expense goes to the county wherein the headstones are erected. The federal government bears the expense if application is made to it as Mr. Ward suggests.

ARREST BOY WHO SHOT BACHARACH

No Justification For the Shooting Appeared From the Story He Tells—Wound is Serious and May Prove Fatal.

Through the work of Chief Wood and Policeman Phinney thirteen year old Frank Schermerhorn, son of Nicholas Schermerhorn of 49 Cedar street, was arrested shortly before six o'cock Friday afternoon charged with shooting Abie Bacharach. This morning the boy was arranged in children's court before Recorder Lang charged with assault in the first degree. The boy entered a plea of not guilty and the case was adjourned to Monday morning and the boy placed under $1,000 bond which was furnished by his father. Bacharach's condition is considered serious, but it is said that he has a chance for recovery.

The shooting occurred on Albany avenue near the railroad bridge. The story of the affair as told by Bacharach and the boy agreed in many details. The boy met Abie at the bridge and claims that Abie made improper advances. Then as Abie started to walk away toward Broadway the boy shot at him with the Flobert rifle he carried. The bullet was a 22 calibre and struck Bacharach in the lower part of the body. Abie walked to Broadway before dropping. He was picked up by Benjamin Vandermark and carried to a nearby stoop and Dr. Frank Keator summoned and later Abie was removed to the Benedictine Sanitarium.

Chief Wood found his condition so serious that he got in touch with Coroner E. A. Kelly and had him take Abie's statement of the affair. Abie was unable to give the name of the one who shot him, but said it was a boy with a gun and that he wore short pants.

This was a vague clue for the police to work on as no one had seen the shooting, but after a while Policeman Phinney got information that "Bull" Schermerhorn had shot Abie.

In the meantime Chief Wood, Sergeant Murray and several members of the force were busy searching the neighborhood in an effort to ascertain if any one had seen or heard the shooting.

With the clue picked up by Phinney the chief and he went to Schermerhorn's house but did not find the lad home. Later they met him coming down Broadway with the gun in a bag under his arm and placed him under arrest.

Owing to the youthfulness of the boy the chief decided to consult the district attorney in the matter and find what was the best disposition to be made of the case. It was finally decided to parole the boy in the custody of his father until this morning which was done.

From what the police learned it seems that Schermerhorm after he had shot Abie went out to visit a boy friend on Linderman avenue and later started for home when he was picked up by Officer Phinney and the chief.

The boy confessed to Chief Wood that he had shot Bacharach.

Later when Bacharach was removed to the office of Dr. Harry P. Van Wagenen on John street to have an X-ray picture taken of the wound so that the physicians could probe for the bullet the boy was taken there and was positively identified by Bacharach as the one who had shot him.

The police deserve great credit for their quick work in rounding up the boy.

From Schermerhorn's story it seems that the gun is not his but belongs to a boy named Banks but that the two lads both use it.

According to Abie's story and that of the boy Abie was about seventy-five feet away when he was shot.

GALE SWEEPING ATLANTIC COAST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Cape Hatteras, was swept last night by a cold 40-mile gale which had scarcely diminished at noon today. The frigid wind from the north drove Washingon from 57 to 18 above during the night.

Zero storms all along the New England coast were reported by the weather bureau today. The coast guard service, anticipating a busy time ahead, was mobilizing its forces this forenoon to go to the aid of disabled vessels.

The gale will diminish toward night, according to the weather bureau.

MAJOR CHANDLER AGAIN HONORED

Major George Chandler of this city has been appointed chairman of the executive committee of the National Guard Association of the State of New York. This association has to do with the shaping of the policies of the national guard and at this time, when the guard is to be federalized, matters of great importance will be involved and the position of chairman of the executive committee is a greatly coveted honor.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 19.—There was a fairly strong tone to the stock market at the opening today and in the early trading but price movements were narrow and business was generally small in volume, although some large blocks of a few stocks, like U S. Steel Common, changed hands. American Smelting was more prominent than it has been for some time, advancing ¾ to 10[illegible], Butte and Superior made a gain of a point to 94¼, and American Zinc continued its upward movement, making an upturn to 84¾. Fractional advances were made in Anaconda, Utah Copper and Steel Common. A few of the railway stocks were in good demand, with Erie the most active of this group, moving up ⅝ to 37⅝. Central Leather rose ⅝ with the buying based on the good showing made in the statement published this morning.

The market closed steady. American Smelting sold above 103 and Pittsburgh Coal advanced to 34⅝. In the final dealings profit taking caused moderate recessions, on which a good part of the early gains were lost. American Zinc reacted to 81½ against 84¾ earlier. Marine preferred and Mexican Petroleum both receded a point. Steel Common, Erie and Anaconda also suffered fractional losses. Government bonds unchanged; other bonds irregular.

GERMANY DRAFTS FINAL INSTRUCTIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, via Amsterdam, Feb. 19.—Final instructions for Ambassador von Bernstorff with reference to the submarine question were drafted by officials of the American Bureau of the German foreign office today and submitted to Foreign Secretary von Jagow for his approval. After ratification by Herr van Jagow and Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, they will be forwarded to Washington.

It is expected that by Tuesday the representative of the German government in the American capital w. have received these instructions and on that or the following day he will again take up the Lusitania matter with Secretary of State Lansing.

The German press is again taking marked interest in the Lusitania issue and the general submarine question, particularly with reference to the sinking of armed merchantmen. The Cologne Gazette says today:

"Negotiations with America are incomplete, but within a week our submarine war against armed merchantmen begins We will allow nobody to curtail our rights nor will we bother about the safety of reckless, crazy neutrals traveling on English ships.

Although such an offer was made in his Friday advertisement, the fault was not Mr. Messinger's. The error was made through oversight by a compositor, and Mr. Messinger is in no way to blame. Patrons who have traded at Mr. Messinger's market for years know that all his advertised claims ring with sincerity and honesty of purpose. The price of spare ribs would have been given as 14 cents a pound.

GOETHALS REPORT ON PANAMA GRAFT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The suppressed report of Major General George W. Goethals dealing with the Panama land frauds whereby the United States will pay $18,000,000 for land worth $1,000,000, today was placed in the possession of the house canals committee. In the bald language of a soldier who resented his government being "robbed" General Goethals set forth that "must summary representations" to the Panama republic would be justified by the "robbery" of the United States. He very flatly charged that "palpable perjury" and "scandal" have marked the land awards of the joint land commission. This report, covering the last fiscal year, was "suppressed" for international reasons as the result of an agreement between the state and war departments.

General Goethals told the committee that he had outlined all of the land deals on the isthmus in his report when he submitted it last summer, but that after the report reached the war department all of this matter had been "expunged." He explained at a previous hearing, when he told of the suppression, that he was before the committee to discuss the land commission and that his "conscience was clear" in the matter of making the information public. He has now submitted the report in manuscript form, and it clearly shows the markings of the censor. Each part is carefully marked out in pencil, and on each page a memorandum shows referring to "five-B-21, Sept 21, 1915," evidently the department file giving the reasons for the suppression of the report.

The report attacked the Panama joint land commission in no uncertain terms The commission has charge of the settlement of all land claims against this government in the canal zone, and General Goethals a week ago told the committee its awards were $16,000,000 or $17,000,000 over the true value of the land. He said the commission bitterly opposed the administrative officials of the government in the canal zone.

Charges of oppressions, threats and frauds, the suppressed report says, "were made against the government's agents and the land inspectors by claimants and their attorneys, and were supported by the testimony of the former, who have combined against the government to extort money from it. The atmosphere here (in Panama) is quite unfriendly to the United States, the evident intention being to get all that is possible by any means that can be employed, and, in many cases, the most palpable perjury is committed by the claimants and their witnesses.

"The important issue involved is something more than money. It affects the good name of our government and its agents."

The report sets forth a letter written by the Panama commissioners to the secretary of foreign relations of Panama last June, charging that the administrative officials of the United States on the isthmus under valued land. The American members of the commission objected to this letter. the report said "On account of this action on the part of the Panama commissioners," said the report, "our government would be justified in making to the Panama government the most summary representations with respect to them."

The Panama commissioners insisted that the commission itself should inspect all land for which compensation was claimed.

"The Panama members of the commission," continued the report, "are not actuated by sincerity. Personal inspection of all property would prolong the sittings of the commission and consequently substantially increase the remuneration of the members. It is much more probable that this, rather than zeal for the protection of claimants, is their impelling motive."

The report set forth in detail extravagant awards made to claimants and gave a list of 15 claimants in one village who were paid $15,270, on land valued by the administrative officials at $759.62. According to the report lawyers representing land claimants collected fifty per cent of the money awarded their clients on land claims.

FALL OF DURAZZO SEEMS IMMINENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Feb. 19.—Durazzo, the capital of Albania, has been surrounded on three sides by Austro-Hungarian troops and it is feared that the city will soon fall beneath the pounding of heavy artillery which the invaders are moving to their front. Storms and bad roads make the transportation of guns and ammunition difficult, but under the spur of German officers the Austrians are laboring with all their strength to bring the city beneath the fire of their siege guns without delay.

A price has been set upon the head of Essad Pasha, the president of Albania government and has been proclaimed "an outlaw and a traitor" by the Turkish government.

Kavaya, eight miles southwest of Durazzo, is now in the possession of the Austrians.

MECHANICS' NEW HOME DEDICATED

Large Attendance of Members and Friends of Charles DeWitt Council—History of the Organization and List of Charter Members.

The handsome new home on Henry street of Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Order of United American Mechanics was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies on Friday evening, and at the close of the dedication ceremonies refreshments were served and a smoker held. Able addresses by Charles S. Miles of Middletown, the state vice councilor, Mayor Canfield, the Rev. George M. Cranston, and a review by E. N. Snow of the work of the organization since its institution made the session a noteworthy one.

The new home of the order is the handsome brick building that formerly housed the old Standard Telephone Company during the last years of its existence, until it was taken over by the New York Telephone Company, from whom it was bought by the order. The price paid for the building was $9,000 and the alterations that were found necessary to be made to fit the building for the present purpose cost at least a thousand dollars more. At the present time the order has one of the finest homes in New York state and has a right to feel proud of the efforts it exerted to secure the new building.

The Dedication Exercises.

Rufus Kelder, a trustee of the council, presided as master of ceremonies. During the evening a special musical program was rendered by an orchestra composed of Miss Kegler at the piano, City Marshal Hoag at the drums, and Edward Post, violinist.

The vocal numbers on the program were given by Ralph Deyo, G. Richter Zeliff and Alva Ruley. Mrs. Zeliff was accompanist.

After a selection by the orchestra, the dedication prayer was delivered by the Rev. Dr. R. C. Dodds, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

The address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Canfield, who paid a high tribute to the order and the principles on which it was founded and he complimented the local council on the work it had accomplished for good in this city.

State Vice Councillor Charles S. Miles of Middletown brought the greetings of the state officers to the local council and he also spoke glowingly on the principles of the order. He said that love of country and flag animated the breast of every true Mechanic and that the principles of the order taught only the highest patriotism to its members.

After a review of the history of the order by Mr. Snow, the dedication address was delivered by the Rev. George M. Cranston, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, who gave one of the most eloquent and scholarly addresses ever heard by the members of the council

Instituted May 7, 1897.

E. N. Snow, who delivered the history of the council, said that the late Henry B. Ingram was the man who dreamed a dream of the instituting of a local council of American Mechanics and it was through Mr. Ingram's efforts that Charles DeWitt Council was instituted on May 7, 1897, in Odd Fellows' Hall. The institution exercises were in charge of State Councillor Richard Bush and State Secretary Lewis F. Page, and all the officers and about forty members of Highland Council, No. 5, of Newburgh, were present.

Fifty-eight Charter Members.

The council was instituted with fifty-eight charter members of which number twelve are dead and nine have been dropped.

The charter members were: Frank D. Whitbeck, Watson O. Eckert, W. H. Woolheater, William N. Pultz, Frank D. Winne, Moses Van Vliet, John Slater, George S. Emmet, William R. Hutton, J. A. Woolheater, Levi Hasbrouck, Herman M. Chapman, Henry B. Wesley, Jewett D. Whitbeck. H. Arthur Traphagen, William Slater, Henry B. Ingram, William R. Tubby, Seymour Tubby, Charles Buckholz, Frank H. Humphrey, Peter Measter, D. Eugene Pelham, Judson S. Neice, Michael Leibig, William Hinkley, Jr., Dr. J. D. W. Dumond, John Holden, Harvey E. Yates. Edgar E. Becker. Jerome C. Covert, Arthur Benjamin, William Russel, Harry Jones, Norwood Hubbel, Charles L. Eimendorf, George E. Ean. Otis Montgomery, E. N. Snow, Roney Crum, George Holsopple, Andrew Yeapel, Cilbert Barley, William Doughty. Frank Fish, Rufus Kelder, Charles Breitenbucher, Charles H. Knight, Dr. George Parker Holden, Oliver Ham, Henry C. Van Aken, Samuel F. Chappel, Augustus Short.

Of the total number of charter members there are thirty-seven who are still active in the work of the council.

The dues were placed at 50 cents and the initiation fee of $2.

The Council's First Officers.

The first officers of the new council were: Junior past councilor, Peter Measter; councilor, F. H. Humphrey; vice councilor, H. A. Traphagen; recording secretary, H. B. Wesley; financial secretary, Henry B. Ingram; treasurer, W. D. Eckert; warden, D. E. Pelham; conductor, W. R. Tubby; inside sentinel, F. D. Whitbeck; outside sentinel, Seymour Tubby; trustee for 18 months, William N. Pultz; trustee, 12 months, F. D. Winne; trustee, 6 months, George P. Holden.

The Council's First Fund.

After the institution supper was served at William's Hotel, that stood on the site of the present Y. M. C. A.

The council opened an account in a savings bank a few days later depositing $25.

Meeting nights were fixed on the first, third and fifth Fridays of the month, and a committee on by laws consisting of Wesley, Measter and Ingram were appointed to draft same.

The council was admitted to membership in the Junior American Benefit Association on May 20 of that year.

In June the balance of the charter members were initiated. They were James A. Powell, Wellington C. Shultis, Ira Whitbeck, George H. Wolf and John P. Eidman.

January Had 80 Members.

The order gradually grew and by the first of January of the following year had about 80 members on the roll.

Lodge Room Changed.

On March 29, 1904 the council moved to Kennedy Hall on Broadway where they remained until they purchased the present new home.

Other Councils Instituted.

The local council instituted several other councils. On October 8, 1897 the Poughkeepsie council was instituted: on June 7, 1899 the Saugerties council, and about 1900 the Ely S Parker Council of Ellenville.

Presented Flag to Industrial Home.

On May 6, 1898, the council presented a pole and flag to the Industrial Home. The home was then located on central Broadway and interesting ceremonies attended the presentation.

Other Acts of Council.

When the present Y. M. C. A. building was built the council presented the building fund with $100. The council also presented the new high school with a Bible.

Benefits Paid Out.

Mr. Snow called attention to the fact that the council in 1914-15 paid out $1,000 in deaths and $700 in sick benefits.

Has Nearly 600 Members.

The council now has a membership of nearly 600 members and is still growing. It is one of the most important organizations in Kingston today and numbers among its members some of the best men of this city.

Well Attended.

The dedication ceremonies Friday evening were well attended. At the close a smoker an social hour was enjoyed. The event will long be remembered by those who attended.

OUR WRETCHED MAIL SERVICE

Congressman Ward Trying to Have Something Done to Stop Senseless Delays in Local Mails Between Hudson River Towns.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Congressman Charles B. Ward is taking up with the Second Assistant Postmaster General the matter of better mail service between river towns in Ulster county. In referring this matter to the congressman the Chamber of Commerce of Kingston pointed out that between Rondout and Rhinecliff there was only one mail service a day, the ferry carrying mail leaving Rondout at 12:30 p. m., and returning at 2 p. m. In comparison to this very limited service it was shown that between Newburgh and Beacon ten round trips were made every day. The Kingston men are asking for three daily round trips between Rondout and Rhinecliff. The poor service that Kingston is receiving in this particular is shown by the fact that mail leaving Kingston, if it does not catch the 12.30 trip, is sent to Albany and then comes down on the other side of the river to Poughkeepsie, causing a very great delay that could easily be alleviated if there were better service in carrying the mail across the river at Rondout and Rhinecliff.

The justice of the contention of Kingston's Chamber of Commerce is borne out by the facts and conditions and Congressman Ward will co-operate in every way to have the service remedied.

Congressman Ward has sent a letter to the commanders of all the Grand Army Posts in this congressional district reminding them that the federal government will upon application furnish headstones for unmarked graves of soldiers, sailors and marines who served in any army or navy of the United States during any war or insurrection (including the revolution) whether regular or volunteer and whether they died in the service or since their muster out or discharge therefrom. In his letter the congresman states to the commanders: "If there are any such unmarked graves of soldiers in your vicinity on which you believe a government headstone should be erected, I would appreciate it if you would write me so that I might have proper application blank forwarded to you for making the request."

The state laws also make provision for the erection of such headstones but if action is taken under the state laws the expense goes to the county wherein the headstones are erected. The federal government bears the expense if application is made to it as Mr. Ward suggests.

ARREST BOY WHO SHOT BACHARACH

No Justification For the Shooting Appeared From the Story He Tells—Wound is Serious and May Prove Fatal.

Through the work of Chief Wood and Policeman Phinney thirteen year old Frank Schermerhorn, son of Nicholas Schermerhorn of 49 Cedar street, was arrested shortly before six o'cock Friday afternoon charged with shooting Abie Bacharach. This morning the boy was arranged in children's court before Recorder Lang charged with assault in the first degree. The boy entered a plea of not guilty and the case was adjourned to Monday morning and the boy placed under $1,000 bond which was furnished by his father, Bacharach's condition is considered serious, but it is said that he has a chance for recovery.

The shooting occurred on Albany avenue near the railroad bridge. The story of the affair as told by Bacharach and the boy agreed in many details. The boy met Abie at the bridge and claims that Abie made improper advances. Then as Abie started to walk away toward Broadway the boy shot at him with the Flobert rifle he carried. The bullet was a 22 calibre and struck Bacharach in the lower part of the body. Abie walked to Broadway before dropping. He was picked up by Benjamin Vandermark and carried to a nearby stoop and Dr Frank Keator summoned and later Abie was removed to the Benedictine Sanitarium.

Chief Wood found his condition so serious that he got in touch with Coroner E. A. Kelly and had him take Abie's statement of the affair. Abie was unable to give the name of the one who shot him, but said it was a boy with a gun and that he wore short pants.

This was a vague clue for the police to work on as no one had seen the shooting, but after a while Policeman Phinney got information that "Bull" Schermerhorn had shot Abie.

In the meantime Chief Wood, Sergeant Murray and several members of the force were busy searching the neighborhood in an effort to ascertain if any one had seen or heard the shooting.

With the clue picked up by Phinney the chief and he went to Schermerhorn's house but did not find the lad home. Later they met him coming down Broadway with the gun in a bag under his arm and placed him under arrest.

Owing to the youthfulness of the boy the chief decided to consult the district attorney in the matter and find what was the best disposition to be made of the case. It was finally decided to parole the boy in the custody of his father until this morning which was done.

From what the police learned it seems that Schermerhorm after he had shot Abie went out to visit a boy friend on Linderman avenue and later started for home when he was picked up by Officer Phinney and the chief.

The boy confessed to Chief Wood that he had shot Bacharach.

Later when Bacharach was removed to the office of Dr Harry P. Van Wagenen on John street to have an X-ray picture taken of the wound so that the physicians could probe for the bullet the boy was taken there and was positively identified by Bacharach as the one who had shot him.

The police deserve great credit for their quick work in rounding up the boy.

From Schermerhorn's story it seems that the gun is not his but belongs to a boy named Banks but that the two lads both use it.

According to Abie's story and that of the boy Abie was about seventy-five feet away when he was shot.

GALE SWEEPING ATLANTIC COAST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Cape Hatteras, was swept last night by a cold 40-mile gale which had scarcely diminished at noon today. The frigid wind from the north drove Washingon from 57 to 18 above during the night.

Zero storms all along the New England coast were reported by the weather bureau today. The coast guard service, anticipating a busy time ahead, was mobilizing its forces this forenoon to go to the aid of disabled vessels.

The gale will diminish toward night, according to the weather bureau.

MAJOR CHANDLER AGAIN HONORED

Major George Chandler of this city has been appointed chairman of the executive committee of the National Guard Association of the State of New York. This association has to do with the shaping of the policies of the national guard and at this time, when the guard is to be federalized, matters of great importance will be involved and the position of chairman of the executive committee is a greatly coveted honor.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 19.—There was a fairly strong tone to the stock market at the opening today and in the early trading but price movements were narrow and business was generally small in volume, although some large blocks of a few stocks, like U S. Steel Common, changed hands. American Smelting was more prominent than it has been for some time, advancing ¾ to 10[illegible]. Butte and Superior made a gain of a point to 94¼, and American Zinc continued its upward movement, making an upturn to 84¾. Fractional advances were made in Anaconda, Utah Copper and Steel Common. A few of the railway stocks were in good demand, with Erie the most active of this group, moving up ⅝ to 37⅝. Central Leather rose ⅝ with the buying based on the good showing made in the statement published this morning.

The market closed steady. American Smelting sold above 103 and Pittsburgh Coal advanced to 34⅝. In the final dealings profit taking caused moderate recessions, on which a good part of the early gains were lost. American Zinc reacted to 81½ against 84¾ earlier. Marine preferred and Mexican Petroleum both receded a point. Steel Common, Erie and Anaconda also suffered fractional losses. Government bonds unchanged; other bonds irregular.

INSTITUTE FOR CITY TEACHERS

A teachers' institute will be held in the Kingston high school on Monday and Tuesday of next week. The first session will open at 9 o'clock Monday morning and there will be both morning and afternoon sessions both days of the institute. The afternoon session will be of especial interest to parents.

On Monday afternoon Professor Bennett's topic at 1:45 will consist of selected readings and discussion of the importance of reading to children.

Professor Lynch at 2:40 will speak on "The Geography of Mexico" For several years Mr. Lynch had charge of the American schools in the city of Mexico. In treating his topic, he deals with the manners and customs of the people and the products of the country.

On Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, President A. R. Brubacher of the New York State College for Teachers at Albany, will give a popular address on "The Teacher as a Citizen." Dr. Brubacher is remarkably well equipped by experience and study to discuss this subject in a manner that will interest all his listeners. Before coming to his present position, Dr. Brubacher had wide experience as principal of city high schools and as superintendent of schools in Schenectady.

The closing address Tuesday afternoon at 2:55 will be given by Dr. Charles F. Wheelock, assistant state commissioner for secondary education. Dr. Wheelock in in great demand for institute work all over the state and wherever he goes secures close attention.

All persons interested in educational work are cordially invited to be present at any of the exercises.

9:00—Opening exercises in auditorium.
9:20—Primary. Some more about story telling. Study hall A, Arthur B. Bennett.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.

This rice dish is one not common and which will be both appetizing and attractive:

Rice Salad.—To two cupfuls of cold boiled rice take one cupful of finely diced, deep red beets and a cupful of chopped celery. Do not mix until time for serving, then combine with French dressing on head lettuce leaves.

Potato Soup With Stock.—Pare and slice six potatoes. In a frying pan melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and in it slowly saute the potatoes, one sliced onion, and half a cupful of celery. When they begin to look yellow add two cloves and a quart of chicken or veal broth. Salt and pepper to taste and simmer until soft. Rub through a sieve and return to the fire. Add more broth if too thick. Beat together the yolks of two eggs, add three tablespoonfuls of cream, just as it goes to the table. Garnish with chopped parsley.

English Beef Soup. — Take two pounds and a half of lean beef, cut off and lay aside a quarter of a pound and pass the remainder through the meat chopper. Pour over it three pints of cold water, let stand for half an hour, then heat to the simmering point; simmer three hours, then strain. Boil separately until tender two tablespoonfuls of fine barley and half a cupful of diced carrot. Cut the reserved meat in small pieces, add a thinly sliced onion and fry in hot fat; add a cup of finely cut celery and a cupful of boiling water, simmer for an hour. Stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour, mix with cold water, add gradually to the meat, stirring until smooth. Bring to the boiling point, add the cooked carrot and barley and a half teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce, one tablespoonful of tomato catchup and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer ten minutes, then serve.

The secret of a dainty salad is crisp fresh vegetables, well chilled, and if French dressing is used that should be mixed with all the ingredients very cold.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATERS LOSE

Friday evening three fellows, chosen from the debating squad of Kingston high school, met three men in the auditorium of the Poughkeepsie high school, and were defeated. The Kingston team was made up of George Green, leader; William Winston and Sherman Hasbrouck, with Charles Sibley as alternate and County Attorney John Eckert of this city as judge. The Bridge City was supported by Russel Losier, leader; Leroy Blauvelt and Clarence Myers, and supplied the other two judges, Mr. Harper and Mr. Dawe.

The question debated was resolved: "That the combination of corporations is more conducive to American business interest that the individual corporation."

The interpretation of the question was that a combination of corporations meant a trust and that American business interests meant the welfare of the American people.

In negotiating for this debate Kingston challenged the Bridge City school and offered them this trust question. Poughkeepsie was fortunate in realizing the superior merits of the affirmative, so that it is an admitted fact that the local boys had the short end of the rope. However the success of any debate rests to a great extent in the selection of a well balanced question.

This oversight on the part of the local team is the only censurable part of their action for they have surely worked hard in preparation for this encounter, and settled down to the tedious task of research no later than the middle of December.

After this defeat the debating circles now turn their attention to the outcome of the debate that is coming off between Kingston and Albany high school. If the maroon and white is to be victorious in this coming encounter she will have to make a supreme effort as Albany in her most recent encounter with Poughkeepsie gave that city's boy a most overwhelming defeat.

SOPER IS WILLING.

Manager of Holy Cross Team Ready to Meet Crescents.

Kingston, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1916.
Editor, The Freeman:

As manager of the Holy Cross Basketball team, I read last evening in the columns of your paper that the teams that should play for the championship of the city, according to their records, should be the Crescents and Holy Cross teams. As your paper stated the Crescents are a heavy team compared with the Holy Cross team, as we average about 135 lbs., but if it is the wish of the fans that these teams should play, I would suggest that arrangements be made to play on the armory court, as the church hall would not afford sufficient room to play the game and accommodate the large crowd of fans that would attend. Therefore if the manager of the Crescents is satisfied, I will gladly try to make these arrangements with him.

I remain, respectively yours,
SILAS P. SOPER,
Manager Holy Cross B. B. T.,
42 Brewster St., City.

MT. TREMPER.

Mt. Tremper, Feb. 19.—The funeral services of Mrs. James DeVall were held at the Reformed Church on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Gulick officiated. A large number of relatives and friends attended. The floral tributes were beautiful. The interment was in the Hudler cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. DeVall Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eldridge, Mrs. Dunbar of Kingston, Mrs. David Flanders of Ilion, N. Y., came to attend the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. DeVall. Among the other relatives who attended were Silas Terwilliger and son Fred of Tillson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Terwilliger, Mr. and Mrs. George Terwilliger, Miss Ella Schutt of Ashokan, Jesse Cook of Alligerville, and Mrs. Minnie Gerald of Clintondale.

Mrs. William Meister and Miss Mathilda Meister are spending a few weeks in New York city.

The play and supper on Wednesday evening was largely attended and about $40 was realized again.

TRUTH AND VIRTUE.

The study of truth is perpetually joined with the love of virtue, for there is no virtue which derives not its original from truth, as, on the contrary, there is no vice which has not its beginning from a lie. Truth is the foundation of all knowledge and the cement of all societies.

BLACK HAND BOMB IN CHICAGO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Feb. 19—With a roar that could be heard for miles and with a force that rocked houses on their foundations and shattered scores of windows, a bomb was exploded in the home of Modestino Mastrogiovanni, an Italian banker, in the heart of a fashionable section of Grand Boulevard, at daylight today.

The banker's home, a three story structure, with a stone front, was demolished. A stair way was blown into the street. Part of the stone front was hurled into the boulevard. Every window in the adjoining home of Ira J. Mix, millionaire, was shattered, and the house was rocked as though by an earthquake.

No one was injured. A Black Hand plot was believed by the police to have been responsible for the explosion.

MILTON.

Milton, Feb. 19.—The principal event of the week was the entertainmeit given by the Camp Fire Girls at the M. E. Church on Monday evening. The following was the program:

Vocal—Selected .....
—Mrs. Walter R. Clarke
Motion Song—Burn Fire, Burn ....
—Camp Fire Girls
Piano Duet—Montecci et Capuleti ..
—Bellini

Miss Adelaide Hallock and Prof Diemer.

Misses Hallock and Rachel Clarke deserve praise for their able training of the Camp Fire Girls. The khaki costumes, decorated with numerous strings of beautiful beads, with their long hair parted and plaited, bound with red and black bands about the brow and fastened at the back with pretty pins, made the girls look very pretty and picturesque. Their camp fire was burning in the center front of platform among numerous evergreens, with a tent or wigwam at one side, was very effective, as well as their songs and drills. Professor Ludwig Diemer of Newburgh brought out all the fine points of both the excellent pipe organ and piano, as only an artist of long study and practice can do. Thanks are due Miss Hallock, who is a pupil of Mr. Diemer's for the treat he gave us. Mrs. Johannes Morton and Mrs. W. R. Clarke's solos were also much appreciated, as was the very fine duet of Miss Hallock and her teacher, Prof Diemer. Miss Hallock gave an invitation to girls of 12 years or over to join the Camp Fire Girls at her home on Tuesday afternoons.

A birthday dinner party, in honor of Joseph Brown, was held at his home on Thursday evening last. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William R. Cubbard, Mrs. Mary Connor, Mrs. Sarah McManus, the Misses Mary Eleanor and Peggy McManus, Marie Cubbard and Messrs. Richard and Thomas Cubbard and Peter McManus.

Miss Janet Freston attended the basketball game between New Paltz and Highland schools on Friday evening last.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coutant visited in Kingston last week.

Miss Greta Christensen gave a party last Monday, it being her eighth birthday. Delicious refreshments were served and games played, Miss Joyce Freston winning the first prie and Miss Nellie DeWitt the second. Those present were the Misses Gertrude Neal, Elizabeth Kaley, Ruth Reich, Freda Martin, Loretta Donovan, Sylvia Williams, Rosamond Woolsey, Nellie DeWitt and Joyce Freston.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Tuckerman were in New York city a part of last week.

Those keeping dogs in this vicinity should keep them tied or shut up, as a number of persons are complaining of them being nuisances.

The Rev. T. H. Baragwanath, D. D., pastor of St. James's M. E. Church, in Kingston, will lecture in the Milton Church on Friday evening, February 25, at 8 o'clock. The subect of the lecture will be, "Picturesque Cornwall and its Folk." This lecture will be illustrated with fine stereopticon views. Dr. Baragwanath is an eloquent and interesting speaker. Admission 25 cents.

Ed. Nolan, Fred Dayton and Dan Collins were hunting several miles west of Milton on Wednesday and shot six jack rabbits and received a bounty of 25 cents per head.

Malcolm A. Northrip was in Poughkeepsie Wednesday on business.

Mrs. Dwight Warren and son, Ivan, spent the weekend and Sunday out of town.

Miss Johanna Rush, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Rush and William Lynch were united in matrimony by the Rev. Father Prunty at St. James's Church on Wednesday evening.

Malcolm A. Northrip, as Barrett Weygant's guest, attended a card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Banker on Ridge Road on Friday evening.

Ostrich Lays Largest Egg.

The ostrich has the distinction of laying the largest egg. The egg, which weighs about three pounds, is considered equal in contents to 24 hen eggs.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Elmer Palen, who is in the west, will return Thursday, February 24, with a car load of horses from Missouri, which he will sell at his auction market, Tuesday, February 29, at No. 682-684 Broadway.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

City men by scores are taking farms, being convinced that under modern conditions agriculture is one of the best paying vocations. Many who wish to become farmers, including persons without experience and hired men who are capable of managing a place, may not have the capital to buy land. In such cases renting affords an opportunity to make a successful start. Buying outright is the better plan, however, even if the start has to be made with a place of five or ten acres.

Either cash renting or the system of sharing profits may prove satisfactory. Investigation shows that fifty-eight cash tenants in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa made an annual labor income of $908, while 198 share tenants made only $835, or $163 less than the cash men. In the dry summer of 1910 these figures were just reversed. The dry season compelled cash renters to stand the burden of all the loss, while the share tenant was helped out by his landlord. That season twenty-seven cash tenants received $689 against $727 average income for tenants who were sharing.

For a large number of farms and over a long period of years the cash man seems to come out ahead. He has the greatest risk, the largest investment and the highest income. A large number of tenant farms netted their operators incomes as follows: Cash rental, $1,704; partnership, $1,291; share cash, $1,110. A capital of $2,000 is needed by the young man who is to start farming on the cash basis. How is he going to get this amount? In many cases it is impossible. Rather than plod along as a farmhand or give up the enterprise altogether a man would be wise to look to some other system of renting. Partnership renting solves this problem. The tenant here furnishes all labor, the landlord all land and seed, and the stock is owned in partnership. This plan is elastic. Sometimes either of the parties may own all the live stock and machinery.

Partnership farms are likely to be handled better than the others. Both sides will aim to keep up soil fertility and be governed by progressive ideas. In a partnership the landlord has a voice in all matters which relate to permanent betterment, general upkeep and the type of farming that is to be practiced. This system of renting is best adapted to the young man with small capital who is willing to work under the supervision of a landlord. There should be a friendly understanding before a contract is made. If both sides agree on progressive methods the arrangement will be advantageous.

There should be a full understanding as to the policy of carrying all the live stock that the place will support, whether for meat production or dairying. This contemplates soil fertility as well as the annual profits from live stock or milk. It is also best to have a clear agreement as to the amount of effort to be given to fruit and truck raising and the way trees and gardens are to be handled. If two earnest and intelligent men get together in a deal on this basis there will be mutual satisfaction and success.

Karl A. Rosenfelt, a stock farmer in Story county, Ia., who has won fame as a breeder of Angus cattle, believes in the partnership system of renting. "If I am going into the cattle business I am going into it with all my might," said Mr. Rosenfelt, "and I will not have time to look after the work in the fields." He believed that the only way to solve the labor problem on a farm was to rent out the land to his hired man. For one-third interest in all the crops produced the tenant furnishes all labor for the putting in of the crops and harvesting them. He lives on the farm in a tenant house, without rent. Results from the last year's efforts were quite satisfactory. The renter's share amounted to $1,260, besides which he had his rent free and most of his living. This ought to be encouraging to the young renter. This man's capital was virtually nothing, the landlord furnishing all the machinery, tools and seed. He kept the pastures for his own use in cattle feeding.

Hens Need Pure Water.

The necessity of plenty of pure drinking water for the laying hens should be apparent to everybody, but we are sorry to say that many hens do not get enough water for their necessities during cold weather. In many poultry houses the water freezes before the hens can get enough to drink.

Use of Metals as Money.

The use of metals as money is not of recent origin, but has gradually superseded other mediums. As the varied activities of human life developed it was necessary that money for common use should be a substance convenient to handle.

HAPPIEST MOMENT OF DONOVAN'S LIFE

Four Prominent Figures in American League.

(By FRANK G. MENKE.)

"The happiest moment of my life?" "Wild Bill" Donovan, who is serving time as manager of the Yankees, paused, looked off into space for a moment or so, and then his face beamed.

"Why, I lived that last summer in Detroit, when I accomplished what some folks claimed was the impossible—the striking out of Ty Cobb, with the bases full," answered "Wild Bill."

"Cy Pieh started the game and was knocked out of the box. I didn't have any other pitchers to shove in, so I went in myself, I passed the first batter. The next one went out on a fly. So did the third. I hit the fourth batter in the ribs with a roundhouse curve, and filled the bases by walking the next Detroit batter.

"Then came Ty Cobb. He was grinning and the crowd was kidding me in a good natured way. I shot up one to Ty and it was wide. The next one was wide. Ty kidded me by asking why didn't I put 'em over. The crowd was giving me the merry ha-ha and telling me that 'you used to be a pitcher, Bill, but that was forty years ago.'

'Well, then I hitched up my trousers and tightened my belt. I shot the next ball over for a called strike. I put the next one in the groove and Ty didn't make a swing at it. It was strike two. Ty fouled off the next two.

"With the count two-two Ty probably figured that I'd waste a ball in an effort to get him to swing at it. But I fooled him. I threw a roundhouse curve—and right into the groove. Ty made a vicious swing at it—and missed.

"I had struck out Ty Cobb with the bases full, and the ovation that I got that Sunday following that little trick, was the greatest that ever was given to me during all my baseball career.

"And, let me tell you this little Bill was sort of proud about that little stunt.

"Did Ty have any comment to make afterwards?"

"Not to me, but I hear that he said to one of his teammates that the reason he fanned was because Cy Pieh had such a crazy delivery that it threw him off his stride and he wasn't back in it until after he faced me that first time.

"The second happiest period was in Washington last summer," he added. "Carroll Brown worked for us and was knocked out of the box along about the fifth inning. The game seemed hopelessly lost for us and so I signaled that I was going in to pitch.

"When I walked into the box Old Clark Griffith began to give me the ha-ha and the razzle-dazzle. He yelled something about the 'Old Men's Home' at me and told his boys that 'Here's where we make a million runs.'

"Well, now, you know I'm not the pitcher I used to be. The old whip has stiffened up a bit through added years and lack of steady work. But I haven't forgotten how to throw twisters, nor have I forgotten some of the weaknesses of some of the clubbers.

"And so I worked on the weaknesses of those Washington hitters, with Griff taunting me and with the crowd yelling something about 'has-been' at me. I worked four full innings and struck out seven of those Washington clubbers. When I began moving down the boys Griff's yells became fainter and fainter and when I'd annexed six scalps Griff had become almost tongue tied.

"In the last inning Clyde Milan, the slugger of the Senators, came up. Griff found his vocal apparatus again and began yelling:

"'This old guy hasn't got a thing, Clyde; not a thing. Knock the ball out of the lot.'

"Those other boys had orders to strike out so as to make you feel good, you old has-been, but here's this boy Milan who hasn't got any such orders. He's going to show you just what we all could do if we wanted to.

"Milan is one of those boys who makes a pitcher work. He must have the ball over the plate. He's got almost unerring judgment as to the good ones and the bad ones. I know I was up against a tough bird, but I was willing to risk putting my arm on the blink for all time in an effort to fan him, and get the last laugh on Griff.

"I shot the first one over in the groove—and Milan swung and missed. He fouled the second and then just as he was figuring that I'd waste one I shot it up to him on a dead line. It caught him almost unawares. He swung—but too late and Milan was out on strikes.

"That was a happy day for Old Bill."

AMERICAN HENLEY IN FAVOR

Coach Charles Courtney of Cornell Wants Shorter Races and Chance for Smaller Colleges.

The proposed American Henley, which was projected by the new American Collegiate Rowing association, organized recently in Philadelphia, meets with the hearty approval of Coach Charles E. Courtney, the noted coach of the Cornell navy.

Mr. Courtney said that he is heartily in favor of any plan which would make rowing more of a general college sport.

He is strong for any plan which will cut down the distance of varsity races and which will permit smaller colleges entering regattas.

He wants to see a larger number of colleges entering an American regatta on the theory that it would make rowing, which he regards as highly beneficial exercise, more popular among college students.

The palm of Palm Beach is awarded to Mme. de Soriano, who comes from Madrid to show the idlers of the American Riviera the latest. She wears no stockings. Her suit itself, what there is of it, is simple enough.

Protection From Lightning.

A slate roof on a house helps a lot to protect it from lightning. Sheet-metal roofs, metal ornaments of size and gas or water pipes, if close to the rod, are bad. They may divert the course of the lightning bolt. In all such cases the rod system should be connected with the roof or with interior metal work, even though the latter be only a telephone wire.

Do Things Worth While.

Spend not your time in that which profits not; for your labor and your health, your time and your studies, are very valuable; and it is a thousand pities to see a diligent and hopeful person speed himself in gathering cockle-shells and little pebbles, in telling sands upon the shores, and making garlands of useless daisies.—Jeremy Taylor.

Avoid Danger From Lightning.

If you find yourself indoors during a thunderstorm, don't go near a stove; it is dangerous. Keep away from the chimney; avoid the close vicinity of the telephone, and don't touch a screen door. This advice is given by the United States government bureau of standards, which has published a lightning book, summing up the results of an elaborate investigation it has made on the subject.

Smallest Republic.

The smallest republic in the world is Andorra, situated in the Pyrenees mountains. It has a population of 5,000 souls. The chief occupation of the people of Andorra is cattle raising, and thousands of cows may be seen browsing in the rich pastures, yet it has never occurred to the Andorrans to milk these cows. Butter and milk are unknown in the republic. Some cheese is made from the milk of sheep, not much. They use brandy in their coffee instead of cream.

Formation of Ice.

The surface of a river or lake freezes into solidity, first at the top; as more water freezes it forms beneath that already frozen. Ice forms over fresh water if the temperature of the air has been for a sufficient time at or below freezing point, but freezing is only possible after the whole mass of water has been cooled down to its point of maximum density, so that the subsequent cooling of the surface can give rise to no convection currents, which would cause diffusion of heat.

INSTITUTE FOR CITY TEACHERS

A teachers' institute will be held in the Kingston high school on Monday and Tuesday of next week. The first session will open at 9 o'clock Monday morning and there will be both morning and afternoon sessions both days of the institute. The afternoon session will be of especial interest to parents.

On Monday afternoon Professor Bennett's topic at 1:45 will consist of selected readings and discussion of the importance of reading to children.

Professor Lynch at 2:40 will speak on "The Geography of Mexico" For several years Mr. Lynch had charge of the American schools in the city of Mexico. In treating his topic, he deals with the manners and customs of the people and the products of the country.

On Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, President A. R. Brubacher of the New York State College for Teachers at Albany, will give a popular address on "The Teacher as a Citizen." Dr. Brubacher is remarkably well equipped by experience and study to discuss this subject in a manner that will interest all his listeners. Before coming to his present position, Dr. Brubacher had wide experience as principal of city high schools and as superintendent of schools in Schenectady.

The closing address Tuesday afternoon at 2:55 will be given by Dr. Charles F. Wheelock, assistant state commissioner for secondary education. Dr. Wheelock in in great demand for institute work all over the state and wherever he goes secures close attention.

All persons interested in educational work are cordially invited to be present at any of the exercises.

The program in full for Monday's sessions follow:

9:00—Opening exercises in auditorium.
9:20—Primary Some more about story telling Study hall A, Arthur B Bennett.
Grammar and high school. Use of the school library in the matter of reading. Auditorium, Sherman Williams.
10:05—Recess.
10:15—The teacher's outlook. Auditorium, Wilbur H. Lynch.
11:00—Recess.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1501.—A New and Up-to-Date Design.—Ladies' Shirt Waist With Convertible Collar.

Figured silk in brown tones was used for this style, with collar and cuffs of organdie. The fronts are full and gathered to square yoke portions. The closing is in coat style. The sleeve is in regular shirt waist style and finished with a neat cuff. This model is also good for velvet, flannel, madras, lawn, chambray, voile, batiste or corduroy. The collar may be rolled open at the throat or closed high. The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 2¾ yards of 40 inch material for a 36 inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipts of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1916 large Spring and Summer Catalogue, containing over 400 designs of Ladies' Misses' and Children's Patterns, as well as the latest Embroidery Designs, also a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

The KITCHEN CABINET

I owe the king of intimate delights,
Fireside enjoyments, home-born happiness,
And all the comforts that the lowly roof
Of undisturbed retirement, and the hours
Of long, uninterrupted evening know.
—Cowper.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.

This rice dish is one not common and which will be both appetizing and attractive:

Rice Salad.—To two cupfuls of cold boiled rice take one cupful of finely diced, deep red beets and a cupful of chopped celery. Do not mix until time for serving, then combine with French dressing on head lettuce leaves.

Potato Soup With Stock.—Pare and slice six potatoes. In a frying pan melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and in it slowly saute the potatoes, one sliced onion, and half a cupful of celery. When they begin to look yellow add two cloves and a quart of chicken or veal broth. Salt and pepper to taste and simmer until soft. Rub through a sieve and return to the fire Add more broth if too thick. Beat together the yolks of two eggs, add three tablespoonfuls of cream, just as it goes to the table. Garnish with chopped parsley.

English Beef Soup. — Take two pounds and a half of lean beef, cut off and lay aside a quarter of a pound and pass the remainder through the meat chopper. Pour over it three pints of cold water, let stand for half an hour, then heat to the simmering point; simmer three hours, then strain. Boil separately until tender two tablespoonfuls of fine barley and half a cupful of diced carrot. Cut the reserved meat in small pieces, add a thinly sliced onion and fry in hot fat; add a cup of finely cut celery and a cupful of boiling water, simmer for an hour. Stir in two tablespoonfuls of flour, mix with cold water, add gradually to the meat, stirring until smooth. Bring to the boiling point, add the cooked carrot and barley and a half teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce, one tablespoonful of tomato catchup and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer ten minutes, then serve.

The secret of a dainty salad is crisp fresh vegetables, well chilled, and if French dressing is used that should be mixed with all the ingredients very cold.

Sale of Valuable Rugs.

An unrestricted public sale of two remarkable collections of old Chinese rugs is announced by The Anderson Galleries, Madison avenue at Fortieth street, New York city, for the afternoons of March 2, 3 and 4. The rugs are now on public exhibition. One collection is that of John Kimberly Mumford of New York and the other has just arrived from Peking and is the collection of Frederick Moore, the author and traveler. The two collections number nearly 300 pieces and is one of the most interesting and important that have been exhibited in many years.

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 19, 1916.

"Force has no peace-preserving value unless the prospective opponent knows in what circumstances it will be used," says Norman Angell, the deep student of international relations, and few more pertinent remarks have been made during the discussion on preparedness. It is pretty generally admitted, as Mr. Angell says, that the European war would not now be in progress if Germany had been sure that England would engage in it. The main object of increasing our army and navy is to avoid war, but it may have the opposite effect unless we let the world know exactly what we are driving at. No one will seriously maintain that our present Administration has any policy. It permits anarchy to go on in Mexico, while it has taken control of affairs and restored order in Haiti. Imagine foreign statesmen trying to figure out what this means. This same administration has dipped into the controversy between England and Germany, actually proposing changes in the rules of war, while it has watched one international law after another being violated without making a protest except in so far as American citizens were concerned. Can anybody call that a policy? If so, it is the policy of a leaf driven by the wind. As Mr. Angell says, "America has a great part to play in the peace conference which must come when the fighting is over," but we will play no part at all worth mentioning unless at the time we have a President with a plan so wise and consistent that it will command the approbation of the world.

Almost sixteen to one is the proportion of the income tax paid by eleven northern States as against a similar number of States comprising "the solid South." The first eleven, exclusive of New York State, which pays the largest tax of all, turn into the Federal treasury a total of $16,285,744 as against the $1,600,000 aggregate contribution of the southern group cited. Comparisons between the individual states of the North and South show the tax paid by Georgia to be $119,983 as against that of Massachusetts of $2,683,000; Florida, $121,368 as against Michigan, $1,533,000. Illinois with its $2,670,630 contribution is six times the combined efforts of Tennessee, Virginia, Alabama and South Carolina. These official returns show where the money comes from. It takes the Democratic statesmanship shown in the Public Buildings bill and the Rivers and Harbors appropriations to show where the money goes. That the bulk of the proceeds is flowing into Southern States and Southern pockets is beyond question.

Concrete instances of the truth above stated were furnished in the recent disclosures in Congress of the multiplicity of building operations being conducted by the Federal Government in the South. Now the Rivers and Harbors bill is to the fore with its millions for Missouri and the South and its few hundred thousands for the North. So utterly out of all proportion are the items that the Republican members of the House Committee voted solidly against reporting it. An analysis of the bill shows a total of $700,000 for the Empire State and its important tidewater and great lake ports, including $4,250 for Rondout Harbor. And this in a State which has expended nearly $120,000,000 in a great waterway system to link the lakes with the ocean. Against this item contrast the Bourbon spirit shown in the $1,500,000 item for the deepening of the Missouri river from Kansas City to the junction of the Big Muddy with the Mississippi. This project, condemned by army engineers, is for the sole benefit of an inland state across which the river mentioned has its course. But the South is in the saddle and until there is a change at Washington such unfair diversions for local purposes at the expense of the more important sections of the country are only to be expected.

Novelty always makes the strongest appeal to human interest, hence, the widespread alarm over the dread anthrax about which Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the United States Public Health Service has become so exercised as to agree to a conference of medical experts in New York to devise ways and means of dealing with this alleged source of danger to public health. It is a safe wager that whenever a new disease reaches the conference stage there are at least three cases in existence in the United States. On the opposite side of the anthrax discussion is found Health Commissioner Emerson of New York, who defines anthrax as "an infrequent industrial hazard, not a general health menace," an opinion borne out by death rater. Perhaps a little more attention directed to the more widespread health menaces, even though the same degree of publicity was not realized, might alleviate the condition of a majority of industrial workers with less anxiety over the comparative few exposed to anthrax solely through failure to properly protect themselves while handling hides.

NEW PALTZ.

New Paltz, Feb. 19.—R. Van Vaughberg of Tarrytown spent the week end in town.

John Cowell of New York spent the week end in town.

Jay Zimmerman was a visitor in New York last week.

KRIPPLEBUSH.

Kripplebush, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Roy Miller, Mrs. Eliza Davis, Mrs. Hugh Palen, Mrs. George B. Christiana, and Mrs. Jesse J. Christiana attended a quilting bee at Mrs. John B. Davis's at Lyonsville.

Mrs. Byron Wood is spending some time with her daughter in Kingston.

Miss May Christiana, who has been spending some time with relatives in New Paltz, returned home Saturday.

Elting Delamater is visiting his brother, Charles K. Delamater, at ths place.

The funeral of Peter S. Roosa was held in the M. E. Church on Thursday at 1 p. m. and was largely attended by members of the Rondout Valley Lodge, K. of P., of Alligerville, and Kripplebush Council, No. 39, Jr. O. U. A. M., and by relatives and friends. The Mechanics, about 75 in number, marched from the house of their departed brother to the church where the funeral took place. Both lodges conducted the funeral ceremonies, paying the last tribute of respect to their departed brother and neighbor. The Rev. Mr. Heroy preached a very impressive sermon. The remains were entered in the Fairview cemetery at Pine Bush. The pall bearers were John E. Gordon, Millard Van Aken, Hugh Palen, Henry Wager, Augustus Smith and Peter L. Davis. The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family.

OLIVEREA.

Oliverea, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Lawrence Dutcher and Mrs. Pardee J. Burnham have returned from New York city, where they have been spending the past two weeks.

The recent cold weather gave to the ice gatherers a good quality of ice, and the ice houses in this vicinity are now all filled.

Mrs. Egbert Gossoo and Mrs. George A. Dutcher of Big Indian were guests of Mrs. B. H. Satterlee in this place one day last week.

On Tuesday, Washington's birthday, the post office will close at 2:40 p. m.

Mrs. J. R. Maben was the hostess Thursday of the ladies of the Methodist Church, who belong to the Ladies' Aid Society.

Lawrence Dutcher spent the last week in New York and Brooklyn.

The Rev. D. N. F. Blakeney has announced that revival services will be held in his church here for two weeks, commencing Monday evening.

Percy J. Adams has gone to Newman where he has secured a position in a store.

Masquerade at Sawkill.

At St. Ann's Hall, Sawkill, a grand masquerade ball will be given on the eve of George Washington's birthday, Monday, February 21, at 9 o'clock sharp. Prizes will be awarded at that hour to the lady and gentleman who have the best comic and decent outfit. Warm lunch will be served. A gay time is assured for those who participate. Proceeds for the benefit of St. Ann's Church.

Optimistic Thought.

To the valiant heart nothing is impossible.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Patience—"So Peggy is putting off her marriage as long as possible?" Patrice—"Oh, yes; she loves attention, you know."—Yonkers Statesman.

Aunt—"You'll be late for the party, won't you, dear?" Niece—"Oh, no, auntie. In our set nobody goes to a party until everybody else gets there."—Boston Transcript.

"Does your husband believe in prohibition?" About the same as he does in ghosts. He admits that there might be such a thing, and the mention of it scares him dreadfully."—Washington Star.

"I am sorry your husband was taken sick just as he was working so hard for our prohibition campaign. What seems to be the trouble?" "The doctor says he has water on the brain."—Baltimore American.

"Professor, I picked up this hairpin at Pompeii. Do you think the Pompeiian women wore hairpins such as this?" "I think it more likely that it was dropped by another tourist," responded the professor after some thought.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Willis—"They say Dr. Bump is very quick to send a bill." Gillis—"Quick! He is premature. I happened to mention to him this morning that I am going to a bachelor supper tonight." Willis—"Yes?" Gillis—"And this afternoon I received a bill for tomorrow morning's services."—Judge.

"The new minister called upon the factory superintendent today." "How'd he come out?" "Boiling. The superintendent thought he was a man looking for a job and told him that he would give him a job in spite of his looks, if he could furnish first-class references and give a bond."—Houston Post.

Sleep as a Criticism.

A dramatic author who was reading a new work before the company of the Comedie Francaise was disturbed, says the Christian Register, at seeing that one of the members, Monsieur Got, had gone fast asleep. The author stopped and reproved the sleeper. He was reading his play to the committee in order, he said, to obtain their opinion. How could a man who was asleep give an opinion?

Monsieur Got rubbed his eyes and remarked, "Sleep is an opinion." That ended the discussion.

"Where's the Bait?"

Representative Volemer, answering at a Washington luncheon an attack against his armament exportation bill, said:

"These men misunderstood my bill. They misunderstood it as completely as the young lady misunderstood the lasso.

"A young lady, pointing to the lasso coiled on his pommel, said to a cowboy:

"'What is that line for?'

"'To catch steers and hosses, ma'am,' the cowboy answered.

"'Indeed!' said the young lady, looking rather astonished. 'And what bait do you use?'"—Norfolk Virginian Pilot.

Still Rings True.

Ida Tarbell, the sociologist and social historian, was talking at the Colony Club in New York about some of the remarkable statements that had been made before the commission on industrial relations.

"It's all very fine," Miss Tarbell said. "It's all very fine, indeed. At the same time the story about old George still rings fairly true.

"As old George was currycombing a big bay horse his boss, a multimillionaire, stopped on his way through the mill yard and said:

"'Hello, George!'

"'Hello, Mr. Brown,' said George currying away.

"The boss puffed good-naturedly on his 25 cent cigar. Then he said:

"'How goes it, George?'

"'Fair to middlin,' George answered. 'Fair to middlin.'

"There was a pause. Suddenly George said:

"'Me and this here hoss, Mr. Brown, me and this here hoss has been a-workin' for you steady for 17 years.'

"'Well, well!' said Brown, remembering a little guiltily George's seven dollars a week. 'Well, well,' he repeated. 'And I guess you find you're both pretty highly valued—hey, what, George?'

"'Well,' said George, "we was both took sick last week and they got a doctor for the hoss, but they just docked my pay.'"—New York World.

GLENFORD.

Glenford, Feb. 19.—Several of this place attended the auction of Harry Lasher near Woodstock on Monday.

POOR QUALITY IS NEVER CHEAP

Value is proven by time—not the price you pay.

And that axiom applies to practically every article of merchandise.

It is economy to seek standards of quality—and for this reason many advertised brands of goods have large sales.

The quality back of the "brand names" must be sustained.

The names are an asset that means business good-will—an asset built on character and fairness of price.

Study the advertising in The Freeman and note where good quality and fair prices go hand in hand.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Feb. 19.—Harry Houghtaling of Bayard street is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ronk in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Crane of Kingston was the guest off Mrs. Fowler in Sleightsburgh Friday and attended the funeral of Mrs. Jane Suffir.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. James Henry and daughter, who have spent a few days at their home here, returned to New York city Friday on the 12:11 train.

The Connelly Pinochle Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. John Spinneweber on Pine Grove avenue on Wednesday afternoon. The main prize was won by Mrs. John Vogt, which was quite a novelty (a British war ship). The greatest novelty of all was the booby prize (a German submarine being launched from a Noah's ark), won by Mrs. F. W. Beil. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Vogt, some time in the month of March.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Jane Suffir were held at the Methodist Church Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout, pastor of the church, and Rev. C. H. Polhemus, a resident pastor, officiated. The pastors paid a glowing tribute to the deceased for her daily Christian life and her saintly home life. She was a loving, kind and tender mother, grandmother and great grandmother. Her companionship was congenial, friendly and pleasant. She will be greatly missed by those who knew her and loved her. Interment in the family lot in Port Ewen Cemetery. The bearers were her grandsons: J. J. Munson, Staten Island; Harry Munson, of Poughkeepsie; Lewis Munson, of New York city; Leslie Munson and Arthur Ellison of Kingston. The following out of town relatives attended the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Suffir, New York city, Mrs. Thomas McGovern, Jersey City, Hiram Kipp, Hoboken, William Shook, Edgewater, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atkins, West Park, Mr. and Mrs. John Kipp and Mrs. Ruhl Bocheller, New York city.

Church notices for Sunday:

Church of the Presentation, Rev. M. Gearin, rector.—Masses at 7:30 and 10:30. Sunday school at 2:30.

Reformed Church—C. Arlington Hallenbeck, a student of New Brunswick, N. J. Sunday school, 10; John R. Munroe, superintendent. Morning worship, 11; Christian Endeavor service, 6:45; topic, "How to Put the Bible Into Life." Ps. 119:105-112. Evening worship at 7:30.

Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. Eugent A. Bookhout, pastor.—Sunday school, 7:30. George W. Shultis, superintendent. Morning worship, 10:30; subject of sermon, "Rising and Growing." Epworth League service at 6:30; topic, "The Tragedy of Indifference." Lam. 1-12. Leaders, Mrs. L. R. Foote, Ethel Stephenson. Evening worship, 7:30; subject of sermon, "The Good Things Seen in the Signs of the Times."

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church attended the funeral services of Mrs. Jane Suffir in a body.

All those who desire to subscribe for the Mission Field will kindly give their subscriptions to Mrs. Elvin Hutchings of Broadway, by February 22.

The new library books furnished by the state for the Epworth League Society have arrived and are ready for distribution. Miss Emeline Myer, librarian.

On Friday evening, February 25, Hope Lodge, No. 65, K. of P., will hold another social gathering. A short session of the lodge will be held and at 8:15 o'clock the families of the members will be admitted, and it is hoped that a large number will be present. A musical and literary entertainment will be given, games played and refreshments served, and a social hour spent together. No doubt a large number will be present.

CHICHESTER.

Chichester, Feb. 19.—Jansen Roberts of Poughkeepsie was in town Tuesday and Wednesday calling on relatives.

Miss Helen Bennett is visiting relatives in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Morris and daughter, Ruth, are spending this week in Albany. While in that city they expect to visit the capital and other public buildings.

Conrad E. Johnson spent Saturday and Sunday with friends on Henry street, Kingston.

Roy DuBois expects to go to Poughkeepsie next week, where he has accepted a position with a manufacturing concern.

Allen Ticefelt made a trip to Kingston Saturday.

Both departments of the public school will be closed on Washington's birthday, February 22.

A Stormy Passage.

English service will be held at the Spring Street German Lutheran Church tomorrow evening at 7:30. The subject of the sermon will be "A Stormy Passage to Christ." Special organ and choir music will be rendered. Friends and strangers are welcome.

Eltinge's Sale a Success.

Extensive advertising is effective, as shown by the response to advertising announcing the sale of Rexall products at the drug store of W. S. Eltinge. A number of thrifty people have taken advantage of this event.

AT YOUR OWN PRICE

When you buy things through The Freeman Want Columns, you buy at your own price and when you sell things through The Freeman Wants, you sell them at your own price.

There is no other mart in which this is true and that is one of the points in favor of doing business through The Freeman Want Ads.

There is hardly a need that cannot be supplied through The Freeman Want Columns, so, if you have one, just run a Want Ad, stating what you want and how much you will pay and you will find the article desired at your door in no time.

Overland

Model 75, Roadster $595—f. o. b. Toledo

Never Before Such An Instantaneous And Sensational Success

From every state in the Union we hear of the amazing success of the latest Overland—the $615 model.

At the New York and Chicago Automobile Shows—the two great national automobile events of the year—the $615 Overland was the most widely discussed model exhibited.

And why not? An electrically started and electrically lighted completely equipped Overland with four-inch tires for only $615!

Is there any wonder this car took the whole country by storm?

Season after season for seven years we have experienced one great success after another.

But this one tops them all.

No other achievement in the history of the entire industry parallels this record

It stands out alone — boldly — conspicuously — unapproached.

Never before has an automobile success been so rapid, so definite and so sweeping.

The $615 Overland has made history. It marks the entrance of a new automobile value—a car complete in every sense of the term at a price which was hitherto thought impossible.

Yet here it is—a powerful five-passenger touring car complete for only $615.

Note that word "complete."

This means electric starter and electric lights, electric horn, magnetic speedometer—in fact, every necessary item. Nothing is lacking. There are no "extras" to buy.

Note that the motor is the very latest en bloc design—the last word in fine engineering.

In addition note that the tires are four-inch size. This is another big advantage. Many cars costing more have smaller tires.

Note that the rear springs are the famous cantilever type. Another advantage. Cantilever springs mean the utmost in riding comfort.

Note the headlight dimmers—the electric control buttons on steering column—demountable rims and one-man top. These are all big advantages.

This newest Overland is light in weight, easy to handle and very economical to operate.

It's just the car the world has been waiting for.

It is large enough for the whole family—moderately priced; within the reach of the majority—economical to maintain—built of the best quality materials—snappy, stylish and speedy—and complete in every sense.

In short, it is just another striking example of how our larger production enables us to build a bigger and better car and still keep the price within reason.

You'll want one, so order it now.

Don't wait, debate or argue with yourself. See that your order is placed immediately.

Then in a few days you and your whole family will be driving your own car.

Remember it comes complete—only $615!

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATERS LOSE

Friday evening three fellows, chosen from the debating squad of Kingston high school, met three men in the auditorium of the Poughkeepsie high school, and were defeated. The Kingston team was made up of George Green, leader; William Winston and Sherman Hasbrouck, with Charles Sibley as alternate and County Attorney John Eckert of this city as judge. The Bridge City was supported by Russel Losier, leader; Leroy Blauvelt and Clarence Myers, and supplied the other two judges, Mr. Harper and Mr. Dave.

The question debated was resolved: "That the combination of corporations is more conducive to American business interest that the individual corporation."

The interpretation of the question was that a combination of corporations meant a trust and that American business interests meant the welfare of the American people

In negotiating for this debate Kingston challenged the Bridge City school and offered them this trust question. Poughkeepsie was fortunate in realizing the superior merits of the affirmative, so that it is an admitted fact that the local boys had the short end of the rope. However the success of any debate rests to a great extent in the selection of a well balanced question.

This oversight on the part of the local team is the only censurable part of their action for they have surely worked hard in preparation for this encounter, and settled down to the tedious task of research no later than the middle of December.

After this defeat the debating circles now turn their attention to the outcome of the debate that is coming off between Kingston and Albany high school. If the maroon and white is to be victorious in this coming encounter she will have to make a supreme effort as Albany in her most recent encounter with Poughkeepsie gave that city's boy a most overwhelming defeat.

Manager of Holy Cross Team Ready to Meet Crescents.

Kingston, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1916.
Editor, The Freeman:

As manager of the Holy Cross Basketball team, I read last evening in the columns of your paper that the teams that should play for the championship of the city, according to their records, should be the Crescents and Holy Cross teams. As your paper stated the Crescents are a heavy team compared with the Holy Cross team, as we average about 135 lbs., but if it is the wish of the fans that these teams should play I would suggest that arrangements be made to play on the armory court, as the church hall would not afford sufficient room to accommodate the large crowd of fans that would attend. Therefore if the manager of the Crescents is satisfied, I will gladly try to make these arrangements with him.

I remain respectively yours.

MT. TREMPER.

Mt. Tremper, Feb. 19.—The funeral services of Mrs. James DeVall were held at the Reformed Church on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Gulick officiated. A large number of relatives and friends attended. The floral tributes were beautiful. The interment was in the Hudler cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. DeVall Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eldridge, Mrs. Dunbar of Kingston, Mrs. David Flanders of Ilion, N. Y., came to attend the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. DeVall. Among the other relatives who attended were Silas Terwilliger and son Fred of Tillson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Terwilliger, Mr. and Mrs. George Terwilliger, Miss Ella Schutt of Ashokan, Jesse Cook of Ulsterville, and Mrs. Minnie Gerald of Clintondale.

Mrs. William Meister and Miss Mathilda Meister are spending a few weeks in New York city.

The play and supper on Wednesday evening was largely attended and about $40 was realized again.

TRUTH AND VIRTUE.

The study of truth is perpetually joined with the love of virtue, for there is no virtue which derives not its original from truth, as, on the contrary, there is no vice which has not its beginning from a lie. Truth is the foundation of all knowledge and the cement of all societies.

BLACK HAND BOMB IN CHICAGO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Feb. 19—With a roar that could be heard for miles and with a force that rocked houses on their foundations and shattered scores of windows, a bomb was exploded in the home of Modestino Mastrogiovanni, an Italian banker, in the heart of a fashionable section of Grand Boulevard, at daylight today.

The banker's home, a three story structure, with a stone front, was demolished. A stair way was blown into the street. Part of the stone front was hurled into the boulevard. Every window in the adjoining home of Ira J. Mix, millionaire, was shattered, and the house was rocked as though by an earthquake.

No one was injured. A Black Hand plot was believed by the police to have been responsible for the explosion.

MILTON.

Milton, Feb. 19.—The principal event of the week was the entertainment given by the Camp Fire Girls at the M. E. Church on Monday evening. The following was the program:

Part I.

Organ Overture ..... Mozart
—Prof. Ludwig Diemer
Motion Song—Walking Song .....
— Camp Fire Girls
Vocal—The Saviour's Command ...
—Mrs. Johannes Morton
Organ—Communion in G . Batiste
—Prof Diemer
Piano—"Dream of Love" .... Liszt
—Prof Diemer

Part II.

Organ—Serenade ..... Schubert
—Prof.. Diemer
Reading—About Camp Fire Girls..
—Winifred McManus
Vocal—Selected .....
—Mrs. Walter R. Clarke
Motion Song—Burn Fire, Burn ....
—Camp Fire Girls
Piano Duet—Montecci et Capuleti ..
—Bellini
Miss Adelaide Hallock and Prof Diemer.

Misses Hallock and Rachel Clarke deserve praise for their able training of the Camp Fire Girls The khaki costumes, decorated with numerous strings of beautiful beads, with their long hair parted and plaited, bound with red and black bands about the brow and fastened at the back with pretty pins, made the girls look very pretty and picturesque. Their camp fire was burning in the center front of platform among numerous evergreens, with a tent or wigwam at one side, was very effective, as well as their songs and drills. Professor Ludwig Diemer of Newburgh brought out all the fine points of both the excellent pipe organ and piano, as only an artist of long study and practice can do. Thanks are due Miss Hallock, who is a pupil of Mr. Diemer's for the treat he gave us. Mrs. Clarke's solos were also much appreciated, as was the very fine duet of Miss Hallock and her teacher, Prof Diemer. Miss Hallock gave an invitation to girls of 12 years or over to join the Camp Fire Girls at her home on Tuesday afternoons.

A birthday dinner party, in honor of Joseph Brown, was held at his home on Thursday evening last. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William R. Cubbard, Mrs. Mary Connor, Mrs. Sarah McManus, the Misses Mary Eleanor and Peggy McManus, Marie Cubbard and Messrs. Richard and Thomas Cubbard and Peter McManus.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coutant visited in Kingston last week.

Miss Greta Christensen gave a party last Monday, it being her eighth birthday. Delicious refreshments were served and games played. Miss Joyce Freston winning the first prie and Miss Nellie DeWitt the second. Those present were the Misses Gertrude Neal, Elizabeth Kaley, Ruth Reich, Freda Martin, Loretta Donovan, Sylvia Williams, Rosamond Woolsey, Nellie DeWitt and Joyce Freston.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Tuckerman were in New York city a part of last week.

Those keeping dogs in this vicinity should keep them tied or shut up, as a number of persons are complaining of them being nuisances.

The Rev. T. H. Baragwanath, D. D., pastor of St. James's M. E. Church, in Kingston, will lecture in the Milton Church on Friday evening, February 25, at 8 o'clock. The subject of the lecture will be, "Picturesque Cornwall and its Folk." This lecture will be illustrated with fine stereopticon views. Dr. Baragwanath is an eloquent and interesting speaker. Admission 25 cents.

Ed. Nolan, Fred Dayton and Dan Collins were hunting several miles west of Milton on Wednesday and shot six jack rabbits and received a bounty of 25 cents per head.

Malcolm A. Northrip was in Poughkeepsie Wednesday on business.

Mrs. Dwight Warren and son, Ivan, spent the weekend and Sunday out of town.

Miss Johanna Rush, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Rush and William Lynch were united in matrimony by the Rev. Father Prunty at St. James's Church on Wednesday evening.

Malcolm A. Northrip, as Barrett Weygant's guest, attended a card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Banker on Ridge Road on Friday evening.

Ostrich Lays Largest Egg.

The ostrich has the distinction of laying the largest egg. The egg, which weighs about three pounds, is considered equal in contents to 24 hen eggs.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Elmer Palen, who is in the west, will return Thursday, February 24, with a car load of horses from Missouri, which he will sell at his auction market, Tuesday, February 29, at No. 682-684 Broadway.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

City men by scores are taking farms, being convinced that under modern conditions agriculture is one of the best paying vocations. Many who wish to become farmers, including persons without experience and hired men who are capable of managing a place, may not have the capital to buy land. In such cases renting affords an opportunity to make a successful start Buying outright is the better plan, however, even if the start has to be made with a place of five or ten acres.

Either cash renting or the system of sharing profits may prove satisfactory Investigation shows that fifty-eight cash tenants in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa made an annual labor income of $698, while 198 share tenants made only $535, or $163 less than the cash men. In the dry summer of 1910 these figures were just reversed. The dry season compelled cash renters to stand the burden of all the loss, while the share tenant was helped out by his landlord. That season twenty-seven cash tenants received $689 against $727 average income for tenants who were sharing.

For a large number of farms and over a long period of years the cash man seems to come out ahead He has the greatest risk, the largest investment and the highest income. A large number of tenant farms netted their operators incomes as follows. Cash rental, $1,704; partnership, $1,291; share cash, $1,110 A capital of $2,000 is needed by the young man who is to start farming on the cash basis. How is he going to get this amount? In many cases it is impossible. Rather than plod along as a farmhand or give up the enterprise altogether a man would be wise to look to some other system of renting. Partnership renting solves this problem." The tenant here furnishes all labor, the landlord all land and seed, and the stock is owned in partnership. This plan is elastic. Sometimes either of the parties may own all the live stock and machinery.

Partnership farms are likely to be handled better than the others. Both sides will aim to keep up soil fertility and be governed by progressive ideas In a partnership the landlord has a voice in all matters which relate to permanent betterment, general upkeep and the type of farming that is to be practiced This system of renting is best adapted to the young man with small capital who is willing to work under the supervision of a landlord There should be a friendly understanding before a contract is made. If both sides agree on progressive methods the arrangement will be advantageous.

There should be a full understanding as to the policy of carrying all the live stock that the place will support, whether for meat production or dairying. This contemplates soil fertility as well as the annual profits from live stock or milk. It is also best to have a clear agreement as to the amount of effort to be given to fruit and truck raising and the way trees and gardens are to be handled. If two earnest and intelligent men get together in a deal on this basis there will be mutual satisfaction and success.

Karl A. Rosenfelt, a stock farmer in Story county, Ia., who has won fame as a breeder of Angus cattle, believes in the partnership system of renting. "If I am going into the cattle business I am going into it with all my might," said Mr. Rosenfelt, "and I will not have time to look after the work in the fields." He believed that the only way to solve the labor problem on a farm was to rent out the land to his hired man. For one-third interest in all the crops produced the tenant furnishes all labor for the putting in of the crops and harvesting them. He lives on the farm in a tenant house, without rent. Results from the last year's efforts were quite satisfactory. The renter's share amounted to $1,260, besides which he had his rent free and most of his living. This ought to be encouraging to the young renter. This man's capital was virtually nothing, the landlord furnishing all the machinery, tools and seed. He kept the pastures for his own use in cattle feeding.

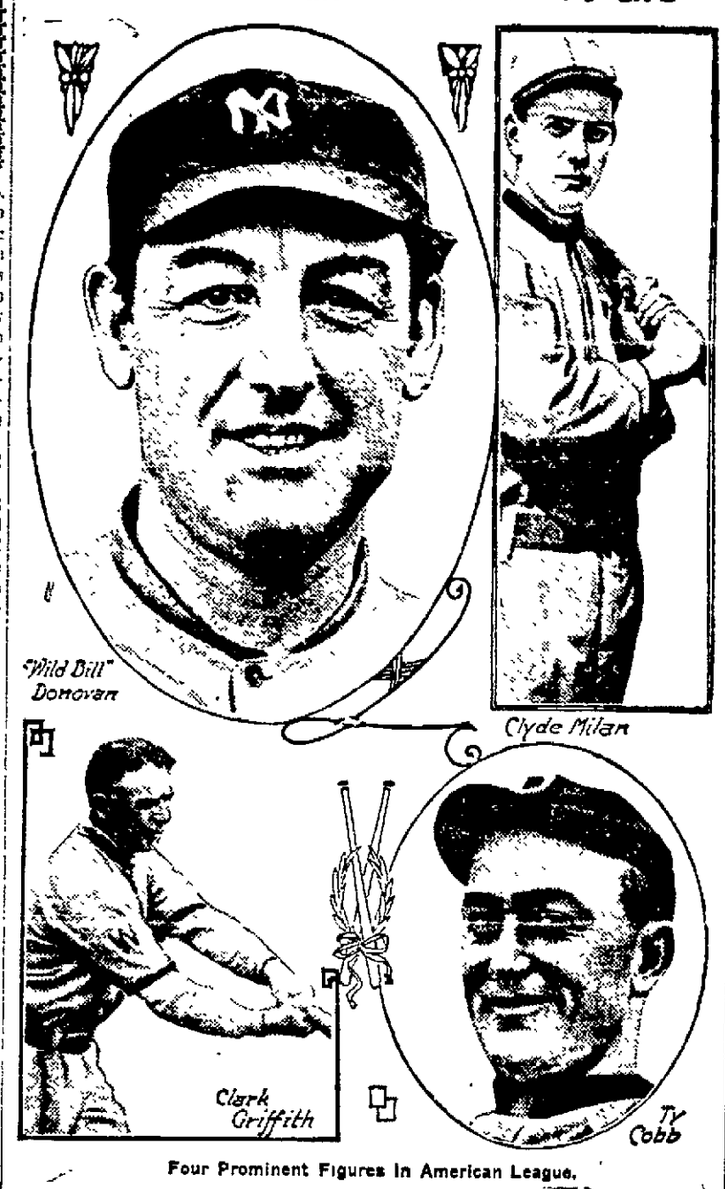
Hens Need Pure Water.

The necessity of plenty of pure drinking water for the laying hens should be apparent to everybody, but we are sorry to say that many hens do not get enough water for their necessities during cold weather. In many poultry houses the water freezes before the hens can get enough to drink.

Use of Metals as Money.

The use of metals as money is not of recent origin, but has gradually superseded other mediums. As the varied activities of human life developed it was necessary that money for common use should be a substance convenient to handle.

HAPPIEST MOMENT OF DONOVAN'S LIFE



Four Prominent Figures in American League.

(By FRANK G MENKE)

"The happiest moment of my life?" "Wild Bill" Donovan, who is serving time as manager of the Yankees, paused, looked off into space for a moment or so, and then his face beamed.

"Why, I lived that last summer in Detroit, when I accomplished what some folks claimed was the impossible—the striking out of Ty Cobb, with the bases full," answered "Wild Bill."

"Cy Pieh started the game and was knocked out of the box. I didn't have any other pitchers to shove in, so I went in myself, I passed the first batter. The next one went out on a fly. So did the third. I hit the fourth batter in the ribs with a roundhouse curve, and filled the bases by walking the next Detroit batter.

"Then came Ty Cobb. He was up ning and the crowd was kidding me in a good natured way. I shot up one to Ty and it was wide. The next one was wide. Ty kidded me by asking why didn't I put 'em over. The crowd was giving me the merry ha-ha and telling me that 'you used to be a pitcher, Bill, but that was forty years ago.'

'Well, then I hitched up my trousers and tightened my belt. I shot the next ball over for a called strike. I put the next one in the groove and Ty didn't make a swing at it. It was strike two. Ty fouled off the next two.

"With the count two-two Ty probably figured that I'd waste a ball in an effort to get him to swing at it. But I fooled him. I threw a roundhouse curve—and right into the groove. Ty made a vicious swing at it—and missed.

"I had struck out Ty Cobb with the bases full, and the ovation that I got that Sunday following that little trick, was the greatest that ever was given to me during all my baseball career.

"And, let me tell you this little Bill was sort of proud about that little stunt.

"Did Ty have any comment to make afterwards?"

"Not to me, but I hear that he said to one of his teammates that the reason he fanned was because Cy Pieh had such a crazy delivery that it threw him off his stride and he wasn't back in it until after he faced me that first time.

"The second happiest period was in Washington last summer," he added "Carroll Brown worked for us and was knocked out of the box along about the fifth inning. The game seemed hopelessly lost for us and so I signaled that I was going in to pitch.

"When I walked into the box Old Clark Griffith began to give me the ha-ha and the razzle-dazzle. He yelled something about the 'Old Men's Home' at me and told his boys that 'Here's where we make a million runs.'

"Well, now, you know I'm not the pitcher I used to be. The old whip has stiffened up a bit through added years and lack of steady work. But I haven't forgotten how to throw twisters, nor have I forgotten some of the weaknesses of some of the clubbers.

"And so I worked on the weaknesses of those Washington hitters, with Griff taunting me and with the crowd yelling something about 'has-been' at me. I worked four full innings and struck out seven of those Washington clubbers. When I began moving down the boys Griff's yells became fainter and fainter and when I'd annexed six scalps Griff had become almost tongue tied.

"In the last inning Clyde Milan, the slugger of the Senators, came up. Griff found his vocal apparatus again and began yelling:

"'This old guy hasn't got a thing, Clyde; not a thing. Knock the ball out of the lot.'

"Those other boys had orders to strike out so as to make you feel good, you old has-been, but here's this boy Milan who hasn't got any such orders. He's going to show you just what we all could do if we wanted to.

"Milan is one of those boys who makes a pitcher work. He must have the ball over the plate. He's got almost unerring judgment as to the good ones and the bad ones I know I was up against a tough bird, but I was willing to risk putting my arm on the line for all time in an effort to fan him, and get the last laugh on Griff.

"I shot the first one over in the groove—and Milan swung and missed. He fouled the second and then just as he was figuring that I'd waste one I shot it up to him on a dead line. It caught him almost unawares. He swung—but too late and Milan was out on strikes.

"That was a happy day for Old Bill."

AMERICAN HENLEY IN FAVOR

Coach Charles Courtney of Cornell Wants Shorter Races and Chance for Smaller Colleges.

The proposed American Henley, which was projected by the new American Collegiate Rowing association, organized recently in Philadelphia, meets with the hearty approval of Coach Charles E Courtney, the noted coach of the Cornell navy.

Mr. Courtney said that he is heartily in favor of any plan which would make rowing more of a general college sport.

He is strong for any plan which will cut down the distance of varsity

Coach Courtney.

races and which will permit smaller colleges entering regattas.

He wants to see a larger number of colleges entering an American regatta on the theory that it would make rowing, which he regards as highly beneficial exercise, more popular among college students.

The palm of Palm Beach is awarded to Mme. de Soriano, who comes from Madrid to show the idlers of the American Riviera the latest. She wears no stockings. Her suit itself, what there is of it, is simple enough.

Protection From Lightning.

A slate roof on a house helps a lot to protect it from lightning. Sheet-metal roofs, metal ornaments of size and gas or water pipes, if close to the rod, are bad. They may divert the course of the lightning bolt. In all such cases the rod system should be connected with the roof or with interior metal work, even though the latter be only a telephone wire.

Do Things Worth While.

Spend not your time in that which profits not; for your labor and your health, your time and your studies, are very valuable; and it is a thousand pities to see a diligent and hopeful person speed himself in gathering cockle-shells and little pebbles, in telling sands upon the shores, and making garlands of useless daisies.—Jeremy Taylor.

Avoid Danger From Lightning.

If you find yourself indoors during a thunderstorm, don't go near a stove; it is dangerous. Keep away from the chimney; avoid the close vicinity of the telephone, and don't touch a screen door. This advice is given by the United States government bureau of standards, which has published a lightning book, summing up the results of an elaborate investigation it has made on the subject.

Smallest Republic.

The smallest republic in the world is Andorra, situated in the Pyrenees mountains. It has a population of 5,000 souls. The chief occupation of the people of Andorra is cattle raising, and thousands of cows may be seen browsing in the rich pastures, yet it has never occurred to the Andorrans to milk these cows. Butter and milk are unknown in the republic. Some cheese is made from the milk of sheep, not much. They use brandy in their coffee instead of cream.

Formation of Ice.

The surface of a river or lake freezes into solidity, first at the top; as more water freezes it forms beneath that already frozen. Ice forms over fresh water if the temperature of the air has been for a sufficient time at or below freezing point, but freezing is only possible after the whole mass of water has been cooled down to its point of maximum density, so that the subsequent cooling of the surface can give rise to no convection currents, which would cause diffusion of heat.

BOYS WITH RIFLES VIOLATE THE LAW

Also Those Who Sell Weapons to Boys are Guilty of a Misdemeanor —Provisions of This Code That Should be Enforced.

There have been a number of cases reported of young boys roaming about the city streets armed with rifles which they used to fire at targets and birds and the shooting of Abie Bacharach on Fridy afternoon by Frank Schermerhorn, 13 year old, with a Flobert rifle, has again directed attention to the sections of the criminal code which make it a misdeamer for any one ti sell a Flobert or air rifle to any one under sixteen years of age and also another section of the code that makes it a misdeamer for any one under sixteen to have in their possession such a weapon.

A year or so ago another young boy in the lower section of the city, while playing with a Flobert rifle in the house, aimed at a fly on the wall of the dining room but made a mis-shot and killed his mother, the bullet entering her eye and piercing the brain.

While no fatal results have followed the use of air rifles by boys under sixteen yet there have been several cases in town where the boy's playmate has been struck with the bullet. A strict enforcement of the sections in the code covering these points by the police aided by the parents of the children and the dealers who handle rifles would put a stop to the practice of young boys having such deadly weapons in their possession.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Feb. 19.—The ice house connected with Shanley's Hotel at Napanoch caught fire on Friday afternoon and was seriously damged. Only the prompt arrival of the Ellenville firemen with their new auto truck saved the hotel from complete destruction.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Moffatt and a party of friends arrive on Saturday, Feb. 19, for the week end and will remain over Washington's Birthday at their summer home, Knoll Acres.

Miss Eliza E. Andrews of Mountaindale, who has been visiting her brother, George F. Andrews of this village, returned to her home on Thursday evening.

The Dorcas Society was entertained on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. H. Westlake Coons at her home on Center street. The ladies are very busy making fancy and domestic articles for their Easter sale.

Mrs. Vrooman entertained the Thimble Club at her home on Friday afternoon.

The Order of the Eastern Star are selling tickets for an evening of games to be held at the Masonic lodge rooms on Tuesday evening, Feb. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. George Keip will remove from his village to Pine Bush, Orange county, on the first of April.

Dairy Released From Quarantine.

Friday Health Officer Frank A. Johnston and Sanitary Inspector Dr. Harold Clarke visited the dairy which had been quarantined owing to the epidemic of typhoid fever and thoroughly disinfected the premises and gave the owner permission to resume selling his milk. The typhoid carrier employed at the dairy has been discharged. Through the quick work of the health officer the epidemic of typhoid was controlled and but ten cases broke out.

Chamber of Commerce.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Comerce will hold an important meeting at the city hall on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Reports from committees will be received and several delegates to the national convention will make their report. The meeting will be open to all members of the Chamber of Commerce.

At Y. M. C. A. on Sunday.

Ellener Galloway of New York city will speak on "The American in the Making" at the meeting for men to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The lecture will be illustrated by moving pictures. Admission is free and all men are invited to attend.

DAME NATURE HINTS

When the Food is Not Suited.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is apt to be with the food. The old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried various kinds of breakfast food, but they were all soft, starchy messes which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterward.

"A friend persuaded me to quit coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice.

"The change it worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I don't have headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way.

"Grape-Nuts makes a delicious as well as a nutritious dish; and I find that Postum agrees perfectly—never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FIFTY EXHIBITS AT AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Fifty automobiles will be shown by twelve local dealers at the auto show in the armory, the drawing for spaces taking place Friday night at the Eagle Hotel before the executive committee of the show. Limited space in the armory prevented the engagement of more room by the dealers, who desire to exhibit many more cars than can be accommodated.

Nine of the dealers will exhibit five cars each, two will display two autos each, while one has engaged a single space. The first nine of the following exhibitors will exhibit five cars each, the next two 2 cars each, and the last will hire one space: James Millard & Son, Forsyth and Davis, A. H. Chambers, Ulster Garage, George J. Schryver, Black & McGrath, Stryker & Youmans, O. M. Kennedy, Van's Garage, N. C. Lezátte and Son, Dr. William Kemble, and Jacob Johnson.

Space for auto accessories will be allotted on Monday evening, February 28, at 8 o'clock at the Eagle Hotel. All who wish to exhibit accessories, motorcycles, motor magazines and other articles pertaining to automobiles must make written application to the secretary, William G. Merritt, before Saturday, February 26.

Mayor Canfield to Open Show.

The big show will be opened the evening of March 30 by Mayor Canfield, and prominent speakers are being engaged to deliver addresses during the remaining two days of the show, March 31 and April 1. Governor Whitman has promised to be present on one of the days.

SOCIETY NOTES.

A leap year dance will be given by the Loyal Friends' Aid Society at the Hebrew school rooms on Spring street February 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Stock of No. 64 Brewster street announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth A., to Gerhard Lang, Jr., on Tuesday, February 15, 1916, at Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Lang will be at home after March 15 at No. 556 Best street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Carrie Derrenbacher entertained with a progressive pinochle party last evening at her home, 80 Spring street in honor of Miss Emma Weiss of New York city. After the awarding of prizes dainty refreshments were served and a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

The first of a series of card parties for "sweet charity's" sake, which will be given by the Daughters of Isabella, will be held at the home of Mrs. Archie Dean, No. 117 Green street, on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 22 (Washington's birthday). The proceeds will be added to the charity fund of the society and will be used solely for charitable work in our own city.

The Elks and their wives and sweethearts will hold an old fashioned dance in their home Monday evening, the 21st. Everyone concerned is looking forward to this event with pleasant anticipation because they know what a good time is in store for them. Music will be furnished by the Elk's orchestra and an entertainment will be provided during the evening.

Griffiths's Hall on Hasbrouck avenue will be a scene of gayety this evening as the third dance of the series being held by the Blue Ribbon Social Club of this city will be the attraction. The club is extremely fortunate this year, every affair that has been held under their auspices has proved to be a financial success. That socially they are no less successful is evidenced by the fact that large crowds always attend the dances. Tonight's dance is expected to outdo the others as regards attendance, there being a large advance sale of tickets. McLeans popular orchestra of this city will furnish the music for the occasion.

Stone Ridge, Feb. 19.—A large number of young and married people from the surrounding villages spent a very peasant evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chipp Quick at Pine Bush on Tuesday evening, February 15. Dancing proved one of the favorite amusements. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hazzie Roosa and family, Miss Lulu Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elmendorf, Miss Jennie Wood, Chester Winchell, Miss Elizabeth Hess, Harry Palen, Jason Roosa, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Oakley and family, Miss Ruth Wood, Mrs. Lizzie Markle and family, Miss Palen, Harold Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Krom, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Connor, Mr. and Mrs. John Connor and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Green and family, Sherman Barley, Miss Maud Oakley, Tracy Barley, Miss Jennie Newkirk, Lewis Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Roosa and family, Jacob and Jasen Conner, Jasper Van Steenburgh and Jacob Barley. A number of fine selections werer rendered on the piano during the evening by Mrs. Chester Roosa, Miss Maud Oakley, Miss Elizabeth Hess and several others. Shortly after the midnight hour refreshments of sandwiches, beef, cheese, pickles, cake and coffee were served. Dancing was then continued until nearly the break of day, when the guests departed to their various homes, assuring Mr. and Mrs. Quick that they had had a delightful time.

Higginson On "Preparedness."

The people of this community will be glad to hear what Rear-Admiral Higginson has to say upon the burning question of the day, "Preparedness." Realizing this fact, the Monday Club, has persuaded the admiral to deliver an address on this subject, at the chapel of the First Dutch Church, on Monday evening next. The lecture will be free to the public, being given under the auspices of the Monday Club.

How D. A. R. Will Celebrate.

Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., will, on Washington's birthday, Tuesday next, celebrate the occasion, by holding one of their social afternoons at the Chapter House, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. This will take the place of the now customary monthly social afternoon. Mrs. A. T. Clearwater and Mrs. Dimmick, who will act as the hostesses, cordially invite all members of the Chapter to come to the Chapter House on Tuesday afternoon, and bring their sewing bags with them, or be prepared for an informal game of cards.

Like An Etching.

Some of the finest art work of the world has been that of the engraver or etcher, who has reproduced in black and white, scenery or the human form. In fact this is the etching time of Dame Nature, for with trees without leaves, showing black against a clear sky, and snow on the ground, black and white form the "colors" to speak most incorrectly, of Mother Earth. So, especially in keeping will be the black and white dance to be given on Friday evening of next week, February 25, at St. Mary's Hall, by the Monday Afternoon Sewing Club, for the benefit of the Day Nursery fund. In the buying of many tickets, be sure and buy one for this dance.

Circles of Mercy Open Meeting.

During the past winter the Circles of Mercy in this city have been busily engaged in the making of surgical dressing for the wounded soldiers in the allied armies. In this humane work they have been greatly aided by many friends. From time to time, there have been newspaper notices telling of what has been done, and the number of articles sent to the Surgical Dressings Committee in New York city. All have realized that much suffering has been alleviated by all this effort, in a general and "long distance" way. On Saturday next, February 26, the Kingston public, through the courtesy of the Circles of Mercy, will be given the privilege of hearing, first hand, of this relief work, especially in France. Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard, president of the Surgical Dressings Committee, and a personal friend of Mrs. Francis J. Higginson and Miss Haldane, will speak in the chapel of the First Reformed Church, at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Willard has only recently returned from Paris, where she went to personally visit the hospitals and learn of the greatest needs of the wounded soldiers. Especially was Mrs. Willard desirous of organizing distributing bureaus, and this has now been accomplished, there being such bureaus at Paris and Bordeaux, from which four hundred hospitals are served. letter received from Mrs. Willard, dated February 16, states that the Surgical Dressings Committee has shipped four million dressings to date. In addition to the interest all will feel in hearing one recently returned from the front tell of their experiences, it should be stated that Mrs. Willard is an able and interesting speaker, who holds the closest attention of all who hear her speak. No admission will be charged for this address, and it is hoped by the members of the Circles of Mercy that the chapel will be filled to the doors to hear Mrs. Willard, as such opportunities are all too rare in these days when women who would really help those in dire need, must work rather than talk, unless talking will persuade others in larger numbers to work.

MISS IRENE L. GIBSON

ARTIST GIBSON'S DAUGHTER TO WED SON OF NOTED ARCHITECT.

New York, Feb. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Irene Langhorne Gibson, to George B. Post, Jr.

Miss Gibson made her debut last December at a dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Gibson at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. She has inherited much of her mother's famous beauty and her father's talent for drawing. Since her debut many affairs have been given in her honor.

Mr. Post is the oldest son of the late George B. Post, one of the most prominent architects of America. The town house of the family is at No. 129 East Sixty-ninth street.

Fire in Newburgh.

Fire in the cellar of the Clinton Theatre in Colden street, Newburgh Friday noon caused the wrecking of the theatre and the flooding of the store of Hewitt & Warden at 14 South Water street. The damage through the flames will be slight but the loss from the water will be considerable. For half an hour the building, a four-story brick structure with frontages on Colden and Water streets, poured out dense volumes of smoke, preventing the firemen from gaining access to the fire which was in the south wall.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Elmer Palen will have at his auction, 682-684 Broadway, Tuesday, February 22, 50 head of good second-handed horses.

ANARCHISTS DISOWN POISONER CRONES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 19.—Jean Crones, the anarchist who is being sought for poisoning scores at a banquet given to Archbishop Mundelein in Chicago, was repudiated by Anarchist leaders in New York city. As a result of declarations made by Emma Goldman, Ben Reitmann and Alexander Berkman, the police are confident that if the fugitive seeks a refuge among the "Reds" he will be betrayed into the power of the detectives now hunting him.

That Crones is a murderous maniac, following the impulses of his own disordered mentality, is the belief not only of Miss Goldman but also of Reitmann and Berkman.

In their tireless efforts to round up Crones, who has goaded them to their greatest activity by his taunts of their inefficiency, the police today sent out a new and more accurate description of the alleged poisoner. This was obtained from Chicago detectives, after the supposed Crones had sent a third letter to a newspaper here, advising the police to "take a correspondence course." That was how Crones got his knowledge of chemistry that enabled him, he said, to slip barium chloride into the soup served to the Catholic dignitaries in Chicago.

"It is to laugh," Emma Goldman said today, regarding the frantic police hunt for Crones. "The man is not an Anarchist. He is a lunatic. I do not know him and he is not known to my associates. So far as I know, he never has been affiliated with our people either here or in Chicago. If the letters were written by him, and not by a crank, as I suspect, he is just having fun with the police. Murderers do not advertise the fact in advance."

Reitmann and Berkman were as positive as Miss Goldman that Crones never had been affiliated with them.

While the detectives under Captain Tunney, acting head of the police bomb squad, were scouring New York today in an effort to take Crones "dead or alive" before he fulfilled his latest threat to quit the city by Sunday night, policemen were on guard at St. Patrick's Cathedral in Fifth avenue, and at the homes of Archbishop Farley, Mgr. Francis J. Lavelle and other Roman Catholic prelates.

Dreams.

One reads some so very silly articles upon the subject of recurrence of dreams that it is necessary to repeat that our dreams are nothing more than a continuation of the state previous to sleep when we lie with no bodily or mental occupation beyond following out whatever train of thought happens to have been suggested.

Two common dream experiences frequently recurring are those of the sensation of flying and of the uneasy impression of being about in public in insufficient attire. The first is caused by the physical fact that we are at the moment without noticeable pressure actually suspended in space; the second by the equally physical fact that few people in these days go to bed in their boots.

It is beyond question that dreams are started or suggested not only by these personal hints, but by external events, usually a noise.—London Observer.

Legend of King Marko.

King Marko, who ranks as the Servian King Arthur, was the son of King Vukashin, whom he denounced for usurping the throne, which rightly belonged to Urosh, son of Dushan. Vukashin cursed him and prayed that he might have neither tomb nor posterity and be doomed to serve "the czar of the Turks." But Urosh blessed him and prayed that he might know no equal in wisdom or prowess and be remembered as long as the earth endured.

"Thus they spake and thus it came to pass," says an old Servian ballad. Marko fought for the sultan, but "the sultan feared him, for his wrath was terrible," and, though he knew no sepulture, he lived, say the legends, for 300 years. He still lives in the hearts of patriotic Servians, many of whom believe that one day he will awake and come forth to restore the glories of the former empire.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Athenian "Liturgy."

One of the most interesting cases of voluntary taxation is the ancient Athenian "liturgy," which meant something very different from the liturgy of today, the etymological meaning of the word being "public work." The liturgy was a special contribution made to the state by a wealthy citizen or group of citizens. There were ordinary liturgies, such as the provision of the chorus for a great tragedy, and extraordinary ones, such as the equipment or maintenance of a warship. The liturgy was fundamentally a tax, and it was often evaded by all sorts of shifts. But in the palmy days of Athens it was considered disgraceful for those upon whom it was imposed to do no more than the law exacted, and sometimes rich citizens would volunteer a liturgy from public spirit or to win popularity.—London Chronicle.

Where She Drew the Line.

Good Enough For a Servian

By ETHEL HOLMES

When the British troops were making their way from Saloniki, Greece, to assist the Servians in repelling the Bulgarians the commander of the English advance was desirious of communicating with the Servians nearest to him in order to arrange for a junction between the two forces. Entering a peasant's hut, he found a Greek family, the oldest daughter being a pretty girl of sixteen.

"Would you like to earn these?" the general asked of the girl, showing her a handful of gold pieces.

Her eyes sparkled, and she admitted that she would.

"Well, then, take a basket of eggs and go northward, ostensibly to sell them to such soldiers as you meet. One of the eggs will contain a message. Give it to the first Servian officer you meet."

"Suppose," asked the girl's mother, "this egg containing the message falls into the hands of a Bulgarian?"

"In that case," replied the general, "it would go very hard with your daughter. But," he added, "if she manages well I think she will get it through without any difficulty."

The woman looked at the gold, then at her daughter. The latter looked at the gold and told the general that she would undertake the mission. The general called for a basket of eggs and, taking one, chipped a small hole in the shell, let out the contents, rolled a bit of tissue paper on which the message had been written into a wisp the size of a match, put it through the hole in the shell, filled the remaining space with sand, then sealed the hole with a bit of white plaster.

The girl was expected to go some distance; therefore a horse and cart on the place were requisitioned to take her. As she drove away the general bid her godspeed, and if she got the message through and returned safely she should have a hundred gold pieces. Possibly she might be intrusted with a return message, but it had been arranged by the one in the egg that it should be oral.

Maria, the girl, drove along a road leading northwestward till she came to a picket guard of Bulgarians stationed to prevent any communication between the French and English and the Serbians. Maria showed them her eggs, and when they seemed disposed to turn her back she gave each of the men a couple of them. They were very hungry; therefore the bribe was sufficient.

She next came to quite a large force of Bulgarians, and the officer in charge refused to let her pass. She made up a sad story about her mother being ill and she had gone out to get some eggs for her to eat. The officer referred the matter to his commander, who, moved by Maria's story, ordered that a woman be employed to search her and if nothing was found on her to let her go on. The search was thorough, the cart being also carefully looked over. Of course nothing was found. Then Maria gave away all the eggs she did not need for her mother and went on, having been given a pass which would enable her to go as far as she liked.

She soon met with a party of Bulgarians engaged in placing obstructions on the road. They stopped her, but when she showed her pass they were willing to let her go on. But, being short of rations, they confiscated her eggs. This frightened her.

"Some of them are not fresh," she said. "I don't think you will care to eat such."

With that the officer in command took up the eggs one after the other and held them to the sunlight to look through them. When he came to the egg with the message, before raising it to the light he held it in his hand a moment to judge its weight.

"This one is bad, I know," he said. "It doesn't weigh the same as the others."

Maria's heart stood still.

The officer held the egg up to the sun, and, since no light passed through it, he put it in the basket, saying:

"My dear, if you meet with a Servian you are quite welcome to give him that egg. It is not good enough for a Bulgarian, but it is too good for a Servian."

A way was made through the obstructions for Maria's cart, and she drove away amid the laughter of the men at their officer's joke.

That was the last stop Maria made. The next men she met were some Servian cavalry. She gave the egg to their commander, telling him that it contained a message. He escorted her to his general, who took the paper from the eggshell and read it with intense interest. It named the location and the date at which the British and the Servians would form a junction, and, since this suited the Servians, Maria had only to carry back an oral message stating the fact.

Strange to say, she had more difficulty in getting back than in going out. She was once detained overnight and twice was searched. When she finally reached the British outposts she was taken to the general, who gave her a kiss and the hundred gold pieces promised her.

The exploit was very much to the credit of the messenger, but it availed nothing in the end, for not long afterward the allies retreated to Saloniki.

Nevertheless though what the girl did was of no avail in the end she was very proud of it.

City of Departed Glory.

Compared with Nineveh and Babylon, hoary-headed in iniquity, Bagdad, a ragged city of 150,000, full of great ruined mosques today, is a mere child. The fabled city of Harun-al-Rashid, dingy today, unsanitary, with its low, windowless houses and its narrow, unspeakable streets, has long clung to a certain importance, none the less, because of its place on the overland trail from the Orient.

Unrest in Crimson Gulch.

"Us fellers at Crimson Gulch decided," remarked Broncho Bob, "as how we're fur peace. The general sentiment was that we'd be more peaceful if we'd disarm." "But you are carrying a gun." "Yes. Everybody is waitin' fur everybody else to disarm first. I'm kind o' afraid this reluctance an' suspicion is goin' to start some hard feelin's."

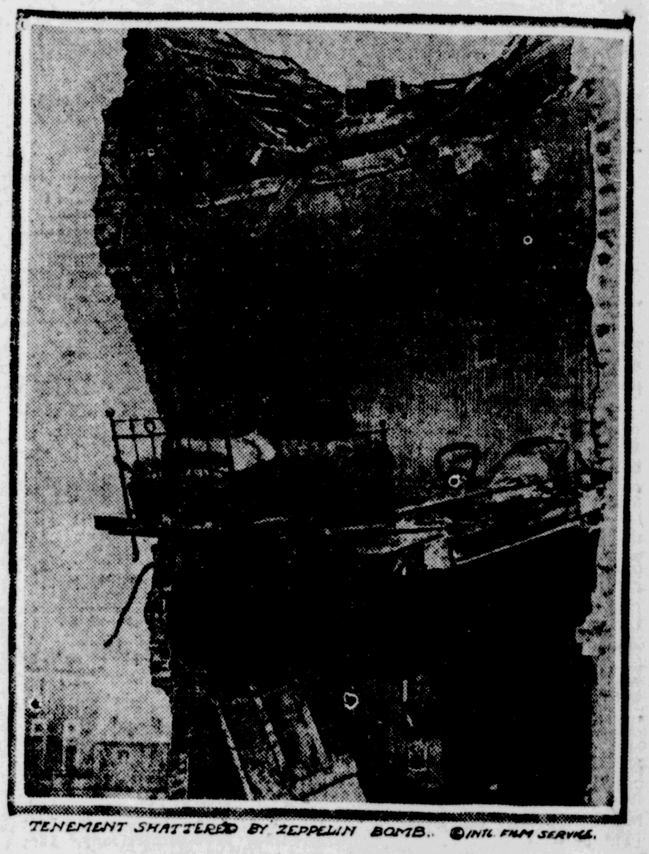
Charged With Murder of Mother.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 19—Charged with shooting his mother to death in a shack in what is known as the West Woods of Hamden, two and one half miles from the main highway, John Overus, 24 is locked up today to await orders of Coroner Mix who is probing the case. The body of the mother, Agnes Overus, was found lying on a bed with the feet on the floor, her hands folded across her breast, a discharged shotgun leaning against one of her arms and a terrible wound in her stomach.



TENEMENT SHATTERED BY ZEPPELIN BOMB.. ©INTL FILM SERVICE.

ZEPPELIN BOMB CUTS PARIS TENEMENT IN HALF.

This humble home in the poorer district of Paris was cut in two by one of the Zeppelin bombs dropped in the air raid on the French capital on January 29. Two members of the family were hurled far away and killed. A bed was left balanced on the edge of the floor, as shown in the picture, and its nine-year-old boy occupant was unhurt.

Life and Character Reading
FEBRUARY 19.

The horoscope shows that the governing sign of this birthdate is Pisces, indicated on the Zodiac as the Fishes, while the governing planet is Jupiter.

We have here a peculiar combination of implicit trust in human nature and a strong independence of character.

This person will occupy a position of responsibility. Large sums of money will pass through his hands which belongs to others.

The nature is very trustworthy and honest.

Jupiter, the god of fortune, will favor making changes in business or in the home on and after August 12.

The birthstone is a moonstone. The greatest success will be found in law, in art, in music and business projects.

Many famous actors are born under the planet Jupiter and public life is well favored for this birthdate.

All the Difference.

A young girl who had been born and brought up in a boarding-house atmosphere was suddenly transplanted into a wealthy home. After she had been there a month a friend of her patroness said: "I expect you notice a great difference between your present and your former surroundings?" "Oh, yes," said the girl. "There, when a man and a girl walk out together, everybody always says, 'Will he marry her?' Here they say, 'Will she have him?'"

CLEARWATER GETS 30 DAY SENTENCE

Walden Married Man Who Ran Away With Daughter of Bridgeport Boarding Mistress Is Silent in Court.

As the culmination of a recent runaway match with Miss Emma J. Hall of No. 695 Beechwood avenue, Bridgeport, Conn., Allen C. Clearwater, 21, who has a wife and ten months old son in Walden, N. Y., was sentenced to 30 days in jail Friday. Clearwater, who had been a boarder at the home of Miss Hall's parents, had failed to pay his board bill and it was upon this charge that he was tried and convicted in the city court by Judge Frederic A. Bartlett.

Although Miss Hall left a note to her mother when she left several days ago, stating that she and Allen had eloped and were going to be married, Mrs. Hall had some strong suspicions that all was not well and that Clearwater already had one wife. Her suspicions were quickly confirmed and the matter was reported to the police authorities.

Clearwater and the young woman were apprehended in Winsted and they had not been married. The girl was detained until her mother arrived there Wednesday and escorted her back home. Clearwater was brought back to Bridgeport on Thursday by Truant Officer Richard Larkin.

In the city court Friday Detective Edward Cronan, who had been working on the case, explained the details to Judge Bartlett. Clearwater declared that he had nothing to say regarding the charges against him. After the 30 days sentence was imposed, Bertillon measurements were taken of Clearwater. It is probable that he may be taken to Walden to face a charge of abandonment of his wife and son.

An Up-to-Date Concert.

Those Kingstonians who have been awaiting a concert of the best up-to-the-minute airs will satisfy their desire if they set aside the evening of February 23 and go to the armory, where the Shriners will present the celebrated Edward Brown colored orchestra of New York city as features of the concert which precedes the dancing. For a full hour from 8 to 9 this collection of musical stars from the Southland will alternate with Muller's orchestra and deliver Broadway songs, tantalizing banjo selections, and whistling solos by Mr. Brown. For a single dollar you may be fascinated by this concert and then, if you wish, participate in the dancing which follows. And all the time you will be aiding the little children with neither father or mother who are forced to come under the protection of the Industrial Home.

Ruth H., infant daughter of Herman and Anna Brandt, died this morning at the family residence, No. 153 Hunter street, aged 1 year. Funeral Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence with interment in Montrepose cemetery.

Mrs. John Larkin died at her home on South Main street, Ellenville, on Friday morning, February 18, after a lingering illness, aged about 70 years. Mrs. Larkin had been a resident of Ellenville during her entire life and was an estimable friend and neighbor. She is survived by her husband, one son, William Larkin of this village, and three daughters, two of whom are married, and Miss Lily Larkin at home.

The funeral of Samuel A. Adams of Summitville was held at the late home on Saturday at 1:30 p. m. The funeral party will come by train to Ellenville where they will be met by Wawarsing Lodge, No. 582, F. and A. M., who will act as an escort to the Fantinekill cemetery and have charge of the services at that place. Mr. Adams had been a member of Wawarsing Lodge for nearly fifty years and was held in the highest esteem and respect by his brethren.

Glasco, Feb. 19.—The funeral of Addison Longendyke of Brooklyn, N. Y., a former well known and much respected resident of this village, was held Wednesday at 11:30 a. m., at the Plattekill Church. The body was brought to Mt. Marion on the 11:08 a. m. train accompanied by the family and other Brooklyn relatives, where a hearse and covered sleighs were in waiting to convey them to the church. The services were conducted by the Rev. H. I. Hoag of Saugerties, assisted by the Rev. Gilbert D. Fisher of Tannersville, N. Y. Several members of Confidence Lodge of I. O. O. F., of which deceased was a member, acted as bearers. Interment in the Plattekill cemetery adjoining the church yard. WANTS TO KNOW WHAT RAFLER WANTS

Before Judge Hasbrouck this morning, a motion was made by Arthur C. Connelly, as attorney for Griffin A. Hart, to compel Solomon Rafler to furnish a bill of particulars in a suit for $72 for services which he has begun against Mr. Hart. Mr. Connelly said the plaintiff, Rafler, was a tailor who had been employed by Mr. Hart for some time before the holidays and had been paid weekly. Hr. Hart therefore desires to know the nature of the services for which he was sued. City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., said his father, Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier, had drawn the complaint for Rafler, who was a traveling salesman. He, the city judge, had tried to communicate with Rafler, but without success. Judge Hasbrouck directed that the bill of particulars be furnished by March 9.

HENRY JAMES.

NOTED AUTHOR IN SERIOUS CONDITION; NO HOPE OF RECOVERY.

London, Feb. 19.—The illness of Henry James, the author, is so serious that even a temporary improvement in his condition is not expected, but because of the nature of his malady it cannot be said to be immediately critical.

Laughable Mistake.

A very popular preacher once had a brother so much like him that few people knew one from the other. One day he went to see his aged parents, and, the occasion being some family festival, he expected his brother to be there likewise. On entering the room, he stepped forward to greet his brother with all the heartiness which a long separation engendered, and found, from a mirror at the other end of the room, that he was offering his hand to himself!

Sleep of Men and Women.

Women go to sleep less quickly than men, but they sleep more soundly and longer. For a short period of time—not more than about half an hour in each night—a man gets into a state of sleep which is more profound than a woman's, but he comes out of this with a rush and sleeps more lightly than the woman during the latter part of the night. His waking is more gradual and he does not become fully awake so rapidly.

ATKINS REPORTS ON MOROSINI CASE

The report of D. G. Atkins, as referee in the suit brought by Guilia Morosini against Arthur M. Werner, to annul her marriage to the defendant, was filed with Judge Hasbrouck in the special term of the supreme court this morning, at which time a motion to confirm the referee's report, which is in favor of the plaintiff, was made by Spooner & Cotton, counsel for the plaintiff, and was not opposed by Henry S. Dottenheim, counsel for the defendant.

The case attracted much attention in New York city recently, when hearings were in progress before Referee Atkins. Guilia Morosini is the daughter of a wealthy Italian banker, who is now dead, and is reputed to be worth more than two million dollars. Werner, formerly was a New York policeman, whose wife, Alice Redding Werner, obtained a divorce from him in Nevada. Several years ago Mr. Cotton, one of Guilia Morosini's counsel, advised her that the Nevada divorce was not legal, and before Judge Hasbrouck, Mr. Spooner, who is a son of Former United States Senator Spooner, stated that there was no question but that Mr. and Mrs. Werner, although they never had lost their residence in New York state, had gone to Nevada, of which state they claimed they were residents, for the express purpose of allowing Mrs. Werner to obtain a divorce.

Judge Hasbrouck said there might be a question as to whether Guilia Morosini had been guilty of complicity in the Nevada divorce in which case there was the further question whether equity would deal with a statutory action.

Mr. Spooner replied that Guilia Morosini had been examined before the referee and had stated that she did not know what money Werner had when he went to Nevada; she had let him have money right along, but she had absolutely no knowledge of what amount of money he had retained. A certain amount had been paid to Mrs. Werner.

Judge Hasbrouck said he would read the testimony and the referee's findings, and would reserve decision.

HOWARD DREW

DREW TO COMPETE IN A. A. U. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

New York, Feb. 19.—Howard P. Drew, the negro sprinting marvel, will compete in the indoor A. A. U. championships, which will be held next month, providing starting blocks are used. Drew has written to Secretary Fred W. Rubien, saying that he expected to be east again about the time the title events will take place, and will be pleased to run under the above conditions.

The great sprinter goes on to say: "I do not want you to think I am telling you how to run your meet, but I cannot take any chances with my leg, which has bothered me so far the past year, running on a smooth floor without spikes or a starting block." It is only at the start that a sprinter needs to be careful. When once well away from the mark the smooth floor does not bother the sprinter who runs without spikes.

Sofia, the Bulgarian Capital.

No city in the east has undergone such a magic transformation as Sofia. Prior to the emancipation of the Bulgars it was a small Turkish town of 20,000, with narrow, dirty streets. There was practically no trade, and the people were in a hideous state of poverty. The city which has now risen up has a population of about 125,000 and is rapidly becoming one of the best in eastern Europe. Architecturally it has far more claim to respect than is at first apparent. The streets, which are well paved and beautifully clean, are too narrow for the adequate display of the fine proportions of the czar's palace, the National theater, the general postoffice, the war office, the Bulgarian National bank, the William Gladstone High School For Boys, the Grand Hotel de Bulgarie, the National Agricultural bank, the Sobranje and many other public buildings which are of fine sandstone. The ecclesiastical edifices are of remarkable beauty, especially the new cathedral.—Review of Reviews.

A New Star

By EDNA T. STEWART

From childhood I had a passion for personating some character. In other words, I was born with dramatic inclinations. When quite a little girl I read Shakespeare's plays that I found in my father's library and took pleasure in spouting the lines of the heroines. One day I would be Juliet leaning over the famous balcony; another I would be Queen Catherine; another, Rosalind.

When I was fifteen years old my father died, leaving my mother with six children to support and without the means to do so. We all had to do something to put money into the family treasury, even if it were only the very smallest amount. Very naturally I chose the stage. That is, I wished to go on the stage, but how to get there I did not know. Had I been a boy I might have gone from one theater to another till I found a position as supernumerary and from that vantage point watched for an opportunity to take small minor parts. Being a girl, I could not do this.

How I finally got on the stage doesn't pertain to this story, which deals with an opportunity to get into public favor. I am speaking of the days when real plays were enacted on the stage, before the coming on of the scenic wonders, burlesques and the like that have driven the drama away. I had been taking minor parts for several years and had been an understudy for one part. Had the actress under whom I was studying ever been sufficiently indisposed to permit me to take her place it might have enabled me to make a hit. But she never failed to appear.

A celebrated playwright wrote a play which he called "Joan of Arc." He wrote the part of Joan, expecting that Mme. G., then the most remarkable tragedienne on the stage, would impersonate the Maid of Orleans. Members of our profession when they once climb to the top round of the ladder are apt to foget the snubs they have endured when they were struggling on the lower rounds and to delight in showing their independence, or perhaps it is the memory of these very snubs that gives them a desire to exercise their own sweet will. At any rate, Mme. G. without giving any reason refused to play the part.

The author of the play was in a distressing position. He had spent many months on it; he had written it especially to display the remarkable histrionic ability of Mme. G., and there was no other actress who, so far as was known, could aspire to play it. The playwright's friends did all they could to win Mme. G. over, but with no success. She remained obdurate.

One evening I was surprised at a call from an actor who was to have appeared in "Joan of Arc" and had been greatly disappointed that the play could not be produced. Without explaining the object of his visit he asked me to read a few lines from several of the parts of Shakespeare's heroines. When I had finished he left me as abruptly as he had come. The next day he came again with the author of "Joan," and I was obliged to read the parts I had read before. They left with me the play that had been written for Mme. G. and asked me to learn it. They came again when I had done so, heard me recite certain passages and delightedly told me that they wished me to assume the principal role.

When the time for a rehearsal came round an audience of some twenty or thirty persons, mostly connected with the stage, was present. What was my surprise to see among them Mme. G. I inferred that she had come to see if, indeed, there was a person who could take her place. Her presence did wonders in spurring me to do my best. I received great applause, and Mme. G. clapped her hands languidly. This faint praise spurred me on still further, and I surpassed myself.

When the play was finished Mme. G. went to the author and said:

I looked at him, wondering what he would say. A light came into his eye as he replied:

"Madame, this play was written for you, supposing that you were the only woman in existence who could take the part. Your refusal instead of being a misfortune has turned out a benefit. A new star has appeared above the horizon. You have enjoyed exclusive prominence for a long while. From this hour you will have to divide it with another."

Mme. G. disappeared, and I, running to the author, threw my arms about his neck.

Her friends endeavored to persuade him to throw me over and give the part to Mme. G., not that she could play it any better than I, but on account of the eclat she would give his work. But he stood firm for me.

I nerved myself for the first performance, realizing that I must stand or fall by it. The story had got abroad, and the house was packed, largely by theatrical people, many of whom had suffered from Mme. G.'s selfishness. I forgot everything except that I was Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans, and throughout the evening received enthusiastic applause. The author's prediction was verified. I was indeed a new theatrical star. From that time my reputation began to grow, and that of Mme. G., who was getting old, began to wane.

Nary a One.

"If I ever move to the country I'm going to live in some town that's got a name that the railroad brakemen are able to pronounce distinctly. Then my friends won't have so much trouble finding me." "That's a very good idea, old man. The only trouble is, there ain't no such town."

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 19, 1916.

"Force has no peace-preserving value unless the prospective opponent knows in what circumstances it will be used," says Norman Angell, the deep student of international relations, and few more pertinent remarks have been made during the discussion on preparedness. It is pretty generally admitted, as Mr. Angell says, that the European war would not now be in progress if Germany had been sure that England would engage in it. The main object of increasing our army and navy is to avoid war, but it may have the opposite effect unless we let the world know exactly what we are driving at. No one will seriously maintain that our present Administration has any policy. It permits anarchy to go on in Mexico, while it has taken control of affairs and restored order in Haiti. Imagine foreign statesmen trying to figure out what this means. This same administration has dipped into the controversy between England and Germany, actually proposing changes in the rules of war, while it has watched one international law after another being violated without making a protest except in so far as American citizens were concerned. Can anybody call that a policy? If so, it is the policy of a leaf driven by the wind. As Mr. Angell says, "America has a great part to play in the peace conference which must come when the fighting is over," but we will play no part at all worth mentioning unless at the time we have a President with a plan so wise and consistent that it will command the approbation of the world.

Almost sixteen to one is the proportion of the income tax paid by eleven northern States as against a similar number of States comprising "the solid South." The first eleven, which pays the largest tax of all, turn into the Federal treasury a total of $16,285,744 as against the $1,600,000 aggregate contribution of the southern group cited. Comparisons between the individual states of the North and South show the tax paid by Georgia to be $119,983 as against that of Massachusetts of $2,682,000; Florida, $121,368 as against Michigan, $1,532,000. Illinois with its $2,670,630 contribution is six times the combined efforts of Tennessee, Virginia, Alabama and South Carolina. These official returns show where the money comes from. It takes the Democratic statesmanship shown in the Public Buildings bill and the Rivers and Harbors appropriations to show where the money goes. That the bulk of the proceeds is flowing into Southern States and Southern pockets is beyond question.

Concrete instances of the truth above stated were furnished in the recent disclosures in Congress of the multiplicity of building operations being conducted by the Federal Government in the South. Now the Rivers and Harbors bill is to the fore with its millions for Missouri and the South and its few hundred thousands for the North. So utterly out of all proportion are the items that the Republican members of the House Committee voted solidly against reporting it. An analysis of the bill shows a total of $700,000 for the Empire State and its important tidewater and great lake ports, including $4,250 for Rondout Harbor. And this in a State which has expended nearly $120,000,000 in a great waterway system to link the lakes with the ocean. Against this item contrast the Bourbon spirit shown in the $1,500,000 item for the deepening of the Missouri river from Kansas City to the junction of the Big Muddy with the Mississippi. This project, condemned by army engineers, is for the sole benefit of an inland state across which the river mentioned has its course. But the South is in the saddle and until there is a change at Washington such unfair diversions for local purposes at the expense of the more important sections of the country are only to be expected.

Novelty always makes the strongest appeal to human interest, hence the widespread alarm over the dread anthrax about which Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the United States Public Health Service has become so exercised as to agree to a conference of medical experts in New York to devise ways and means of dealing with this alleged source of danger to public health. It is a safe wager that whenever a new disease reaches the conference stage there are at least three cases in existence in the United States. On the opposite side of the anthrax discussion is found Health Commissioner Emerson of New York, who defines anthrax as "an infrequent industrial hazard, not a general health menace," an opinion borne out by death rates. Perhaps a little more attention directed to the more widespread health menaces, even though the same degree of publicity was not realized, might alleviate the condition of a majority of industrial workers with less anxiety over the comparative few exposed to anthrax solely through failure to properly protect themselves while handling hides.

KRIPPLEBUSH.

Kripplebush, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Roy Miller, Mrs. Eliza Davis, Mrs. Hugh Palen, Mrs. George B. Christiana, and Mrs. Jesse J. Christiana attended a quilting bee at Mrs. John Byron Wood is spending some time with her daughter in Kingston.

Miss May Christiana, who has been spending some time with relatives in New Paltz, returned home Saturday.

The funeral of Peter S. Roosa was held in the M. E. Church on Thursday at 1 p. m. and was largely attended by members of the Rondout Valley Lodge, K. of P., of Alligerville, and Kripplebush Council, No. 39, Jr. O. U. A. M., and by relatives and friends. The Mechanics, about 75 in number, marched from the house of their departed brother to the church where the funeral took place. Both lodges conducted the funeral ceremonies, paying the last tribute of respect to their departed brother and neighbor. The Rev. Mr. Heroy preached a very impressive sermon. The remains were entered in the Fairview cemetery at Pine Bush. The pall bearers were John E. Gordon, Millard Van Aken, Hugh Palen, Henry Wager, Augustus Smith and Peter L. Davis. The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family.

OLIVEREA.

Oliverea, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Lawrence Dutcher and Mrs. Pardee J. Burnham have returned from New York city, where they have been spending the past two weeks.

The recent cold weather gave to the ice gatherers a good quality of ice, and the ice houses in this vicinity are now all filled.

Mrs. Egbert Gossoo and Mrs. George A. Dutcher of Big Indian were guests of Mrs. B. H. Satterlee in this place one day last week.

Mrs. J. R. Maben was the hostess Thursday of the ladies of the Methodist Church, who belong to the Ladies' Aid Society.

The Rev. D. N. F. Blakeney has announced that revival services will be held in his church here for two weeks, commencing Monday evening.

Percy J. Adams has gone to Newman where he has secured a position in a store.

Masquerade at Sawkill.

At St. Ann's Hall, Sawkill, a grand masquerade ball will be given on the eve of George Washington's birthday, Monday, February 21, at 9 o'clock sharp. Prizes will be awarded at that hour to the lady and gentleman who have the best comic and decent outfit. Warm lunch will be served. A gay time is assured for those who participate. Proceeds for the benefit of St. Ann's Church.

Optimistic Thought.

To the valiant heart nothing is impossible.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Patience—"So Peggy is putting off her marriage as long as possible?" Patrice—"Oh, yes; she loves attention, you know."—Yonkers Statesman.

Aunt—"You'll be late for the party, won't you, dear?" Niece—"Oh, no, auntie. In our set nobody goes to a party until everybody else gets there."—Boston Transcript.

"Does your husband believe in prohibition?" About the same as he does in ghosts. He admits that there might be such a thing, and the mention of it scares him dreadfully."—Washington Star.

"I am sorry your husband was taken sick just as he was working so hard for our prohibition campaign. What seems to be the trouble?" "The doctor says he has water on the brain."—Baltimore American.

"Professor, I picked up this hairpin at Pompeii. Do you think the Pompeiian women wore hairpins such as this?" "I think it more likely that it was dropped by another tourist," responded the professor after some thought.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Willis—"They say Dr. Bump is very quick to send a bill." Gillis—"Quick! He is premature. I happened to mention to him this morning that I am going to a bachelor supper tonight." Willis—"Yes?" Gillis—"And this afternoon I received a bill for tomorrow morning's services."—Judge.

"The new minister called upon the factory superintendent today." "How'd he come out?" "Bolling. The superintendent thought he was a man looking for a job and told him that he would give him a job in spite of his looks, if he could furnish first-class references and give a bond."—Houston Post.

Sleep as a Criticism.

A dramatic author who was reading a new work before the company of the Comedie Francaise was disturbed, says the Christian Register, at seeing that one of the members, Monsieur Got, had gone fast asleep. The author stopped and reproved the sleeper. He was reading his play to the committee in order, he said, to obtain their opinion. How could a man who was asleep give an opinion?

Monsieur Got rubbed his eyes and remarked, "Sleep is an opinion." That ended the discussion.

"Where's the Bait?"

Representative Volemer, answering at a Washington luncheon an attack against his armament exportation bill, said:

"These men misunderstood my bill. They misunderstood it as completely as the young lady misunderstood the lasso.

"'What is that line for?'

"'To catch steers and hosses, ma'am,' the cowboy answered.

"'Indeed!' said the young lady, looking rather astonished. 'And what bait do you use?'"—Norfolk Virginian Pilot.

Still Rings True.

Ida Tarbell, the sociologist and social historian, was talking at the Colony Club in New York about some of the remarkable statements that had been made before the commission on industrial relations.

"It's all very fine," Miss Tarbell said. "It's all very fine, indeed. At the same time the story about old George still rings fairly true.

"As old George was currycombing a big bay horse his boss, a multimillionaire, stopped on his way through the mill yard and said:

"'Hello, George!'

"'Hello, Mr. Brown,' said George currying away.

"The boss puffed good-naturedly on his 25 cent cigar. Then he said:

"'How goes it, George?'

"There was a pause. Suddenly George said:

"'Me and this here hoss, Mr. Brown, me and this here hoss has been a-workin' for you steady for 17 years.'

"'Well, well!' said Brown, remembering a little guiltily George's seven dollars a week. 'Well, well,' he repeated. 'And I guess you find you're both pretty highly valued—hey, what, George?'

"'Well,' said George, 'we was both took sick last week and they got a doctor for the hoss, but they just docked my pay.'"—New York World.

POOR QUALITY IS NEVER CHEAP

Value is proven by time—not the price you pay.

And that axiom applies to practically every article of merchandise.

It is economy to seek standards of quality—and for this reason many advertised brands of goods have large sales.

The quality back of the "brand names" must be sustained.

The names are an asset that means business good-will—an asset built on character and fairness of price.

Study the advertising in The Freeman and note where good quality and fair prices go hand in hand.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

They may slam and they may hammer
Old Bat Nelson if they will,
But the "borin-in" old warrior
Lingers in the limelight still.

* * * *

Just exactly 20 years ago next Tuesday Battling Nelson entered the prize ring in a contest against a circus kid. And Bat is going to celebrate it by meeting for the fourth time his ancient enemy—Ad Wolgast—the man who took from Bat the championship by battering him to a helpless pulp.

Twenty years a fighter—and not satisfied! A strange person is Bat. He loves to fight—and he loves the game. Pecuniary reward isn't his real motive in meeting Wolgast. Bat has enough money stored away to support him for the rest of his days. He is meeting Wolgast with but one purpose in mind—to beat him as he beat Bat in the long ago.

"Only one man ever gave me a regular lamming," Bat told us a year or so ago. "That fellow was Ad Wolgast, and I'm out to get him—to secure revenge. I'll never quit the ring until I hand him a lacing to start with and a knockout wallop as a finisher."

The Longest Slide.

Out in the wilds of Spokane the folks call your attention to two ball players—Ty Lober and "Rube" Evans, who jointly made the longest slide on record—501 3-5 feet.

It was figured that Tyrus Cobb, who once slid 15 feet or so, held the record in the sliding line—but behold the achievement of Lober and Evans.

In the neighborhood of Fossil, Oregon, is a big hill. Lober and Evans camped there this winter. It snowed heavily one day. The next day our heroes ascended to the very top of the hill and watched the merry villagers coasting down. Having no sled, the ball players took unto themselves a long, flat board, seated themselves thereon and started down the hill.

Hardly had their descent begun when the board slipped from under them. Their impetus was too great to enable them to stop. There was nothing left for them to do but slide the rest of the way—on the seat of their trousers. They did that very thing to the utter ruin of the said trousers and the hilarious amusement of the fossil natives.

Curious—and amused—by-standers later measured the distance of the slide and the figures are as above, 501 3-5 feet.

Can anyone dig up records to beat that slide

Ping Won't Come Back.

"Ping" Bodie, undoubtedly the most joshed person that ever wore big league spangles, refuses to come back to the majors from the minors where he made a good record last year.

Bodie was the butt of a thousand jokes when he wore the White Sox uniform. He was kidded in poem and prose; he was the first thought of humorous paragraphers—and the last. No one on the White Sox roster ever thought of a new joke without trying it out on "Ping."

Not only that, but "Ping's" physical makeup was of the kind that provoked merriment everywhere he went. He was short and squatty—a roly-poly sort of person. He waddled as he walked—and he waddled as he ran, and because of this his every movement on the ball field caused laughter.

All this ridicule hurt "Ping." He went to the Sox heralded as a great slugger. And he was naturally. But the kidding that was handed to him and the knowledge that he was looked upon as the unconscious comedian of baseball, affected his playing. "Ping" might have become one of the greatest players in the game had he been treated differently, but, as it was, he fell down in his work and was sent back to the minors.

When he heard last fall that some of the big league clubs were figuring on giving him another chance, "Ping" said:

"No more big league stuff for mine. They kidded me out of the majors—and I'm through with them. I am content to play in the minors because here the fans are kindly in their treatment toward me—and so are the players."

HIGH SCHOOL WINS FROM HUDSON 92 TO 3

Friday evening the maroon and white cleaned up a basketball five from Hudson high school by a score of 92 to 3.

The visitors played all right for a team that has had little practice and apparently no organization, but when it is considered that the Hudson five boast of three victories out of the four games they have played this season it is clearly seen that some praise is due the home team for rolling up the total it did.

Early in the first half Dolson received a slight injury to his knee but this by no means put him out of the game, although it did necessitate the calling of time out for Kingston. Hudson did not make a single basket in the first half and only shot one foul successfully, leaving the score 40 to 1.

At the beginning of the second half the maroon and white wishing to show some courtesy to the visitors took every one of her players out of the game and placed Riseley, Silverman, Wheeler, Mones and Duncan in the field. The visitors put Baisten in at left guard and changed BeVier to center. However, these changes by no means tended to even the score for the passwork and general playing of Kingston's second line-up was even better than that of the first five. Later with five minutes to play Betts and Howard were substituted for Riseley and Mones.

The special feature of the contest was the exceptional passwork and teamwork of the local five. The whole squad appears to be in tip top shape and everything points to a great game with the conquering Poughkeepsie five next Monday evening. The little affair last evening may well be called a preliminary game before the greatest struggle of the season. Both the Bridge City five and the maroon and white know that each have powerful line-ups, and both high schools are priming themselves for the struggle so that the spectators who witness the battle next Monday evening will see absolutely the most fast and fierce contest staged on the high school gymnasium this season.

In Friday's game the officials were C. H. Beckwith, referee; J. Schoonmaker, timekeeper, and Stelle, scorekeeper. The summary was as follows:

Lasher's New Market.

P. A. Lasher, who for many years conducted a grocery store on Wall street, and who at present is owner of a meat market on Cedar street, will soon occupy the store on Broadway occupied by John Miller, the ice cream dealer, and will establish a public market, selling fruit, meat and vegetables. The opening of this store will take place the first of March, the Cedar street store being operated as a branch. There is no doubt that a store of such a nature in the center of the city will be a success, with honest values, such as Mr. Lasher offer, the drawing card.

Painting on Silk, Satin or Velvet.

To paint on silk, satin and velvet in water colors, use the colors in the ordinary water colors in the usual way, but instead of water use gum arabic dissolved in a little warm water. The liquid should not be too thin. Use Chinese white to make the colors lighter if necessary, after they are mixed with the solution. Care should be taken not to have too much color on the brush otherwise the paint will run into the silk.

Cooking Course at the Firm's Expense.

A well-known firm of biscuit makers of London and Edinburgh have come to an interesting decision in regard to girls who leave to be married after being in their service for over three years. Such ex-employees will be sent to a school of cookery for three weeks at the firm's expense, and will receive full wages while they are taking the course.

FIELD OF SPORTS.

Notes of Baseball, Pugilism and Other Lines of Athletics.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 19.—The first detachment of the Yankees will leave for the spring training camp at Macon tomorrow. Manager Donovan and Duke Farrell, who will assist in the training, will accompany the squad.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—It costs Charles Wegham, owner of the Cubs, $550,000 to play a game of golf. He went out to the links, met James Gilmore, and took a flier in the Federal League. His investment cost this amount.

Syracuse, Feb. 19.—In a tame bout here last night Frankie Nail of Allentown went ten rounds to a draw with Frankie Nelson of Buffalo. Nail was 12 pounds heavier than his opponent.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Jess Willard, who has been laid up with a cold, continues to improve and expects to resume training for the Moran bout next week.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Joe Stecher, Nebraska wrestler, threw two opponents last night in less than five minutes. Orlando Lupo went down in 1 minute and 5 seconds, and Louis Christensen in 3 minutes and 10 seconds.

Steamboat Springs, Col., Feb. 19.—Ragner Omtvedt holds a new worlds record for ski jumping today. The new mark is 192.9 feet, 15.9 feet better than the former record.

Facts About Dynamite.

In spite of all that has been said and written to the contrary, many people still have the idea that dynamite is exceedingly dangerous stuff to take liberties with, and that it will explode at the least shock. This is a mistake. Nothing less than a tremendous shock will make dynamite explode, and this shock is obtained by exploding a mixture of nitric acid, mercury and alcohol, which in turn explodes the dynamite.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Feb. 19.—Harry Houghtaling of Bayard street is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ronk in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Crane of Kingston was the guest off Mrs. Fowler in Sleightsburgh Friday and attended the funeral of Mrs. Jane Suffr.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. James Henry and daughter, who have spent a few days at their home here, returned to New York city Friday on the 12:11 train.

The Connelly Pinochle Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. John Spinneweber on Pine Grove avenue on Wednesday afternoon. The main prize was won by Mrs. John Vogt, which was quite a novelty (a British war ship). The greatest novelty of all was the booby prize (a German submarine being launched from a Noah's ark), won by Mrs. F. W. Beil. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Vogt, some time in the month of March.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Jane Suffr were held at the Methodist Church Friday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout, pastor of the church, and Rev. C. H. Polhemus, a resident pastor, officiated. The pastors paid a glowing tribute to the deceased for her daily Christian life and her saintly home life. She was a loving, kind and tender mother, grandmother and great grandmother. Her companionship was congenial, friendly and pleasant. She will be greatly missed by those who knew her and loved her. Interment in the family lot in Port Ewen Cemetery. The bearers were her grandsons: J. J. Munson, Staten Island; Harry Munson, of Poughkeepsie; Lewis Munson, of New York city; Leslie Munson and Arthur Ellison of Kingston. The following out of town relatives attended the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Suffr, New York city, Mrs. Thomas McGovern, Jersey City, Hiram Kipp, Hoboken, William Shook, Edgewater, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atkins, West Park, Mr. and Mrs. John Kipp and Mrs. Ruhl Bocheller, New York city.

Evening worship, 7:30; subject of sermon, "The Good Things Seen in the Signs of the Times."

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church attended the funeral services of Mrs. Jane Suffr in a body.

All those who desire to subscribe for the Mission Field will kindly give their subscriptions to Mrs. Elvin Hutchings of Broadway, by February 22.

The new library books furnished by the state for the Epworth League Society have arrived and are ready for distribution. Miss Emeline Myer, librarian.

On Friday evening, February 25, Hope Lodge, No. 65, K of P, will hold another social gathering. A short session of the lodge will be held and at 8:15 o'clock the families of the members will be admitted, and it is hoped that a large number will be present. A musical and literary entertainment will be given, games played and refreshments served, and a social hour spent together. No doubt a large number will be present.

CHICHESTER.

Chichester, Feb. 19.—Jansen Roberts of Poughkeepsie was in town Tuesday and Wednesday calling on relatives.

Conrad E. Johnson spent Saturday and Sunday with friends on Henry street, Kingston.

Roy DuBois expects to go to Poughkeepsie next week, where he has accepted a position with a manufacturing concern.

Allen Ticefelt made a trip to Kingston Saturday.

Both departments of the public school will be closed on Washington's birthday, February 22.

A Stormy Passage.

English service will be held at the Spring Street German Lutheran Church tomorrow evening at 7:30. The subject of the sermon will be "A Stormy Passage to Christ." Special organ and choir music will be rendered. Friends and strangers are welcome.

Eltinge's Sale a Success.

Extensive advertising is effective, as shown by the response to advertising announcing the sale of Rexall products at the drug store of W. S. Eltinge. A number of thrifty people have taken advantage of this event.

AT YOUR OWN PRICE

When you buy things through The Freeman Want Columns, you buy at your own price and when you sell things through The Freeman Wants, you sell them at your own price.

There is no other mart in which this is true and that is one of the points in favor of doing business through The Freeman Want Ads.

There is hardly a need that cannot be supplied through The Freeman Want Columns, so, if you have one, just run a Want Ad, stating what you want and how much you will pay and you will find the article desired at your door in no time.

Overland

$615

Model 75, Roadster $595—f. o. b. Toledo

Never Before Such An Instantaneous And Sensational Success

From every state in the Union we hear of the amazing success of the latest Overland—the $615 model.

At the New York and Chicago Automobile Shows—the two great national automobile events of the year—the $615 Overland was the most widely discussed model exhibited.

And why not? An electrically started and electrically lighted completely equipped Overland with four-inch tires for only $615!

Is there any wonder this car took the whole country by storm?

Season after season for seven years we have experienced one great success after another.

But this one tops them all.

No other achievement in the history of the entire industry parallels this record

It stands out alone — boldly — conspicuously — unapproached.

Never before has an automobile success been so rapid, so definite and so sweeping.

The $615 Overland has made history. It marks the entrance of a new automobile value—a car complete in every sense of the term at a price which was hitherto thought impossible.

Yet here it is—a powerful five-passenger touring car complete for only $615.

Note that word "complete."

This means electric starter and electric lights, electric horn, magnetic speedometer—in fact, every necessary item. Nothing is lacking. There are no "extras" to buy.

Note that the motor is the very latest en bloc design—the last word in fine engineering.

In addition note that the tires are four-inch size. This is another big advantage. Many cars costing more have smaller tires.

Note that the rear springs are the famous cantilever type. Another advantage. Cantilever springs mean the utmost in riding comfort.

This newest Overland is light in weight, easy to handle and very economical to operate.

It is large enough for the whole family—moderately priced, within the reach of the majority—economical to maintain—built of the best quality materials—snappy, stylish and speedy—and complete in every sense.

In short, it is just another striking example of how our larger production enables us to build a bigger and better car and still keep the price within reason.

You'll want one, so order it now.

Don't wait, debate or argue with yourself. See that your order is placed immediately.

Then in a few days you and your whole family will be driving your own car.

Remember it comes complete—only $615!

BOYS WITH RIFLES VIOLATE THE LAW

Also Those Who Sell Weapons to Boys are Guilty of a Misdemeanor —Provisions of This Code That Should be Enforced.

There have been a number of cases reported of young boys roaming about the city streets armed with rifles which they used to fire at targets and birds and the shooting of Abie Bacharach on Fridy afternoon by Frank Schermerhorn, 13 year-old, with a Flobert rifle, has again directed attention to the sections of the criminal code which make it a misdeamer for any one to sell a Flobert or air rifle to any one under sixteen years of age and also another section of the code that makes it a misdeamer for any one under sixteen to have in their possession such a weapon.

A year or so ago another young boy in the lower section of the city, while playing with a Flobert rifle in the house, aimed at a fly on the wall of the dining room but made a miss-shot and killed his mother, the bullet entering her eye and piercing the brain.

While no fatal results have followed the use of air rifles by boys under sixteen yet there have been several cases in town where the boy's playmate has been struck with the bullet. A strict enforcement of the sections in the code covering these points by the police aided by the parents of the children and the dealers who handle rifles would put a stop to the practice of young boys having such deadly weapons in their possession.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Feb. 19.—The ice house connected with Shanley's Hotel at Napanoch caught fire on Friday afternoon and was seriously damaged. Only the prompt arrival of the Ellenville firemen with their new auto truck saved the hotel from complete destruction.

DAME NATURE HINTS

When the Food is Not Suited.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is apt to be with the food. The old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried various kinds of breakfast food, but they were all soft, starchy messes which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterward.

"A friend persuaded me to quit coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice.

"The change it worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I don't have headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way.

"Grape-Nuts makes a delicious as well as a nutritious dish; and I find that Postum agrees perfectly—never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FIFTY EXHIBITS AT AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Fifty automobiles will be shown by twelve local dealers at the auto show in the armory, the drawing for spaces taking place Friday night at the Eagle Hotel before the executive committee of the show. Limited space in the armory prevented the engagement of more room by the dealers, who desire to exhibit many more cars than can be accommodated.

Nine of the dealers will exhibit five cars each, two will display two autos each, while one has engaged a single space. The first nine of the following exhibitors will exhibit five cars each, the next two 2 cars each, and the last will hire one space: James Millard & Son, Forsyth and Davis, A. H. Chambers, Ulster Garage, George J Schryver, Black & McGrath, Stryker & Youmans, O M Kennedy, Van's Garage, N. C. Lezatte and Son, Dr. William Kemble, and Jacob Johnson.

Space for auto accessories will be allotted on Monday evening, February 28, at 8 o'clock at the Eagle Hotel All who wish to exhibit accessories, motorcycles, motor magazines and other articles pertaining to automobiles must make written application to the secretary, William G. Merritt, before Saturday, February 26.

Mayor Canfield to Open Show.

The big show will be opened the evening of March 30 by Mayor Canfield, and prominent speakers are being engaged to deliver addresses during the remaining two days of the show, March 31 and April 1 Governor Whitman has promised to be present on one of the days.

SOCIETY NOTES.

A leap year dance will be given by the Loyal Friends' Aid Society at the Hebrew school rooms on Spring street February 29

Mr and Mrs. Augustus Stock of No. 64 Brewster street announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth A., to Gerhard Lang, Jr., on Tuesday, February 15, 1916, at Buffalo, N. Y Mr and Mrs. Lang will be at home after March 15 at No. 556 Best street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Carrie Derrenbacher entertained with a progressive pinochle party last evening at her home, 80 Spring street in honor of Miss Emma Weiss of New York city After the awarding of prizes dainty refreshments were served and a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close

The first of a series of card parties for "sweet charity's" sake, which will be given by the Daughters of Isabella, will be held at the home of Mrs. Archie Dean, No. 117 Green street, on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 22 (Washington's birthday) The proceeds will be added to the charity fund of the society and will be used solely for charitable work in our own city

The Elks and their wives and sweethearts will hold an old fashioned dance in their home Monday evening, the 21st Everyone concerned is looking forward to this event with pleasant anticipation because they know what a good time is in store for them Music will be furnished by the Elk's orchestra and an entertainment will be provided during the evening.

Griffiths's Hall on Hasbrouck avenue will be a scene of gayety this evening as the third dance of the series being held by the Blue Ribbon Social Club of this city will be the attraction The club is extremely fortunate this year, every affair that has been held under their auspices has proved to be a financial success That socially they are no less successful is evidenced by the fact that large crowds always attend the dances Tonight's dance is expected to outdo the others as regards attendance, there being a large advance sale of tickets. McLeans popular orchestra of this city will furnish the music for the occasion.

Stone Ridge, Feb 19.—A large number of young and married people from the surrounding villages spent a very pleasant evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs Chipp Quick at Pine Bush on Tuesday evening, February 15. Dancing proved one of the favorite amusements. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hazzie Roosa and family, Miss Lulu Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elmendorf, Miss Jennie Wood, Chester Winchell, Miss Elizabeth Hess, Harry Palen Jason Roosa Mr and Mrs. Floyd Oakley and family, Miss Ruth Wood, Mrs. Lizzie Markle and family, Miss Palen, Harold Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Krom, Mr and Mrs Harvey Connor, Mr and Mrs. John Connor and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Green and family, Sherman Barley, Miss Maud Oakley, Tracy Barley, Miss Jennie Newkirk, Lewis Durham, Mr. and Mrs Chester Roosa and family, Jacob and Jasen Conner, Jasper Van Steenburgh and Jacob Barley. A number of fine selections werer rendered on the piano during the evening by Mrs. Chester Roosa, Miss Maud Oakley, Miss Elizabeth Hess and several others Shortly after the midnight hour refreshments of sandwiches, beef, cheese, pickles, cake and coffee were served Dancing was then continued until nearly the break of day, when the guests departed to their various homes, assuring Mr and Mrs. Quick that they had had a delightful time.

Higginson On "Preparedness."

The people of this community will be glad to hear what Rear-Admiral Higginson has to say upon the burning question of the day, "Preparedness." Realizing this fact, the Monday Club, has persuaded the admiral to deliver an address on this subject, at the chapel of the First Dutch Church, on Monday evening next. The lecture will be free to the public, being given under the auspices of the Monday Club.

How D. A. R. Will Celebrate.

Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., will, on Washington's birthday, Tuesday next, celebrate the occasion, by holding one of their social afternoons at the Chapter House, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. This will take the place of the now customary monthly social afternoon. Mrs. A. T. Clearwater and Mrs. Dimmick, who will act as the hostesses, cordially invite all members of the Chapter to come to the Chapter House on Tuesday afternoon, and bring their sewing bags with them, or be prepared for an informal game of cards.

Like An Etching.

Some of the finest art work of the world has been that of the engraver or etcher, who has reproduced in black and white, scenery or the human form In fact this is the etching time of Dame Nature, for with trees without leaves, showing black against a clear sky, and snow on the ground, black and white form the "colors" to speak most incorrectly, of Mother Earth So, especially in keeping will be the black and white dance to be given on Friday evening of next week, February 25, at St Mary's Hall by the Monday Afternoon Sewing Club, for the benefit of the Day Nursery fund In the buying of many tickets, be sure and buy one for this dance.

Circles of Mercy Open Meeting.

During the past winter the Circles of Mercy in this city have been busily engaged in the making of surgical dressing for the wounded soldiers in the allied armies In this humane work they have been greatly aided by many friends. From time to time, there have been newspaper notices telling of what has been done, and the number of articles sent to the Surgical Dressings Committee in New York city. All have realized that much suffering has been alleviated by all this effort in a general and "long distance" way. On Saturday next, February 26, the Kingston public, through the courtesy of the Circles of Mercy, will be given the privilege of hearing, first hand, of this relief work, especially in France. Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard, president of the Surgical Dressings Committee, and a personal friend of Mrs Francis J. Higginson and Miss Haldane will speak in the chapel of the First Reformed Church, at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Willard has only recently returned from Paris, where she went to personally visit the hospitals and learn of the greatest needs of the wounded soldiers Especially was Mrs. Willard desirous of organizing distributing bureaus, and this has now been accomplished, there being such bureaus at Paris and Bordeaux from which four hundred hospitals are served letter received from Mrs Willard, dated February 16, states that the Surgical Dressings Committee has shipped four million dressings to date. In addition to the interest all will feel in hearing one recently returned from the front tell of their experiences, it should be stated that Mrs Willard is an able and interesting speaker, who holds the closest attention of all who hear her speak. No admission will be charged for this address, and it is honed by the members of the Circles of Mercy that the chapel will be filled to the doors to hear Mrs Willard, as such opportunities are all too rare in these days when women who would really help those in dire need must work rather than talk, unless talking will persuade others in larger numbers to work.

MISS IRENE L. GIBSON

ARTIST GIBSON'S DAUGHTER TO WED SON OF NOTED ARCHITECT.

Miss Gibson made her debut last December at a dance given by Mr and Mrs Gibson at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. She has inherited much of her mother's famous beauty and her father's talent for drawing. Since her debut many affairs have been given in her honor.

Fire in Newburgh.

Fire in the cellar of the Clinton Theatre in Colden street, Newburgh Friday noon caused the wrecking of the theatre and the flooding of the store of Hewitt & Warden at 14 South Water street. The damage through the flames will be slight but the loss from the water will be considerable. For half an hour the building, a four-story brick structure with frontages on Colden and Water streets, poured out dense volumes of smoke, preventing the firemen from gaining access to the fire which was in the south wall.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

ANARCHISTS DISOWN POISONER CRONES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 19.—Jean Crones, the anarchist who is being sought for poisoning scores at a banquet given to Archbishop Mundelein in Chicago, was repudiated by Anarchist leaders in New York city As a result of declarations made by Emma Goldman, Ben Reitmann and Alexander Berkman the police are confident that if the fugitive seeks a refuge among the "Reds" he will be betrayed into the power of the detectives now hunting him.

That Crones is a murderous maniac, following the impulses of his own disordered mentality, is the belief not only of Miss Goldman but also of Reitmann and Berkman.

In their tireless efforts to round up Crones, who has goaded them to their greatest activity by his taunts of their inefficiency, the police today sent out a new and more accurate description of the alleged poisoner. This was obtained from Chicago detectives, after the supposed Crones had sent a third letter to a newspaper here, advising the police to "take a correspondence course." That was how Crones got his knowledge of chemistry that enabled him, he said, to slip barium chloride into the soup served to the Catholic dignitaries in Chicago

"It is to laugh," Emma Goldman said today, regarding the frantic police hunt for Crones The man is not an Anarchist He is a lunatic I do not know him and he is not known to my associates. So far as I know, he never has been affiliated with our people either here or in Chicago. If the letters were written by him, and not by a crank, as I suspect, he is just having fun with the police. Murderers do not advertise the fact in advance."

Reitmann and Berkman were as positive as Miss Goldman that Crones never had been affiliated with them

While the detectives under Captain Tunney, acting head of the police bomb squad, were scouring New York today in an effort to take Crones "dead or alive" before he fulfilled his latest threat to quit the city by Sunday night, policemen were on guard at St Patrick's Cathedral in Fifth avenue, and at the homes of Archbishop Farley, Mgr. Francis J Lavelle and other Roman Catholic prelates.

Dreams.

One reads some so very silly articles upon the subject of recurrence of dreams that it is necessary to repeat that our dreams are nothing more than a continuation of the state previous to sleep when we lie with no bodily or mental occupation beyond following out whatever train of thought happens to have been suggested

Two common dream experiences fre- sation of flying and of the uneasy impression of being about in public in insufficient attire The first is caused by the physical fact that we are at the moment without noticeable pressure actually suspended in space; the second by the equally physical fact that few people in these days go to bed in their boots

It is beyond question that dreams are started or suggested not only by these personal hints, but by external events usually a noise.—London Observer.

Legend of King Marko.

King Marko, who ranks as the Servian King Arthur, was the son of King Vukashin, whom he denounced for usurping the throne, which rightly belonged to Urosh, son of Dushan. Vukashin cursed him and prayed that he might have neither tomb nor posterity and be doomed to serve "the czar of the Turks." But Urosh blessed him and prayed that he might know no equal in wisdom or prowess and be remembered as long as the earth endured.

"Thus they spake and thus it came to pass," says an old Servian ballad. Marko fought for the sultan, but "the sultan feared him, for his wrath was terrible," and, though he knew no sepulture, he lived, say the legends, for 300 years He still lives in the hearts of patriotic Servians, many of whom believe that one day he will awake and come forth to restore the glories of the former empire.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Athenian "Liturgy."

One of the most interesting cases of voluntary taxation is the ancient Athenian "liturgy," which meant something very different from the liturgy of today, the etymological meaning of the word being "public work." The liturgy was a special contribution made to the state by a wealthy citizen or group of citizens There were ordinary liturgies, such as the provision of the chorus for a great tragedy, and extraordinary ones, such as the equipment or maintenance of a warship. The liturgy was fundamentally a tax, and it was often evaded by all sorts of shifts. But in the palmy days of Athens it was considered disgraceful for those upon whom it was imposed to do no more than the law exacted, and sometimes rich citizens would volunteer a liturgy from public spirit or to win popularity.—London Chronicle.

Where She Drew the Line.

"Is the play one which you would permit your daughter to attend?" we ask of the lady who has been expounding her views on the necessity for handling vital topics in the drama. "Certainly," she replies, "but I wouldn't allow my son to see it."—Judge.

Good Enough For a Servian

By ETHEL HOLMES

When the British troops were making their way from Saloniki, Greece, to assist the Servians in repelling the Bulgarians the commander of the English advance was desirous of communicating with the Servians nearest to him in order to arrange for a junction between the two forces Entering a peasant's hut, he found a Greek family, the oldest daughter being a pretty girl of sixteen.

"Would you like to earn these?" the general asked of the girl, showing her a handful of gold pieces.

Her eyes sparkled, and she admitted that she would.

"Well, then, take a basket of eggs and go northward, ostensibly to sell them to such soldiers as you meet. One of the eggs will contain a message. Give it to the first Servian officer you meet."

"Suppose," asked the girl's mother, "this egg containing the message falls into the hands of a Bulgarian?"

"In that case," replied the general, "it would go very hard with your daughter But," he added, "if she manages well I think she will get it through without any difficulty."

The woman looked at the gold, then at her daughter The latter looked at the gold and told the general that she would undertake the mission. The general called for a basket of eggs and, taking one, chipped a small hole in the shell, let out the contents, rolled a bit of tissue paper on which the message had been written into a wisp the size of a match, put it through the hole in the shell, filled the remaining space with sand, then sealed the hole with a bit of white plaster.

The girl was expected to go some distance; therefore a horse and cart on the place were requisitioned to take her. As she drove away the general bid her godspeed, and if she got the message through and returned safely she should have a hundred gold pieces Possibly she might be intrusted with a return message, but it had been arranged by the one in the egg that it should be oral.

Maria, the girl, drove along a road leading northwestward till she came to a picket guard of Bulgarians stationed to prevent any communication between the French and English and the Serbians. Maria showed them her eggs, and when they seemed disposed to turn her back she gave each of the men a couple of them. They were very hungry, therefore the bribe was sufficient.

She next came to quite a large force of Bulgarians, and the officer in charge refused to let her pass She made up a sad story about her mother being ill and she had gone out to get some eggs for her to eat. The officer referred the matter to his commander, who, moved by Maria's story, ordered that a woman be employed to search her and if nothing was found on her to let her go on. The search was thorough, the cart being also carefully looked over. Of course nothing was found. Then Maria gave away all the eggs she did not need for her mother and went on, having been given a pass which would enable her to go as far as she liked.

She soon met with a party of Bulgarians engaged in placing obstructions on the road. They stopped her, but when she showed her pass they were willing to let her go on But, being short of rations, they confiscated her eggs This frightened her.

"Some of them are not fresh," she said. "I don't think you will care to eat such.

With that the officer in command took up the eggs one after the other and held them to the sunlight to look through them. When he came to the egg with the message, before raising it to the light he held it in his hand a moment to judge its weight.

"This one is bad, I know," he said "It doesn't weigh the same as the others."

Maria's heart stood still.

"My dear, if you meet with a Servian you are quite welcome to give him that egg. It is not good enough for a Bulgarian, but it is too good for a Servian."

A way was made through the obstructions for Maria's cart, and she drove away amid the laughter of the men at their officer's joke.

That was the last stop Maria made. The next men she met were some Servian cavalry. She gave the egg to their commander, telling him that it contained a message. He escorted her to his general, who took the paper from the eggshell and read it with intense interest. It named the location and the date at which the British and the Servians would form a junction, and, since this suited the Servians, Maria had only to carry back an oral message stating the fact.

Strange to say, she had more difficulty in getting back than in going out. She was once detained overnight and twice was searched When she finally reached the British outposts she was taken to the general, who gave her a kiss and the hundred gold pieces promised her.

The exploit was very much to the credit of the messenger, but it availed nothing in the end, for not long afterward the allies retreated to Saloniki.

Nevertheless though what the girl did was of no avail in the end she was very proud of it.

City of Departed Glory.

Compared with Nineveh and Babylon, hoary-headed in iniquity, Bagdad, a ragged city of 150,000, full of great ruined mosques today, is a mere child. The fabled city of Harun al-Rashid, dingy today, unsanitary, with its low, windowless houses and its narrow, unspeakable streets, has long clung to a certain importance, none the less, because of its place on the overland trail from the Orient.

Unrest in Crimson Gulch.

"Us fellers at Crimson Gulch decided," remarked Broncho Bob, "as how we're fur peace. The general sentiment was that we'd be more peaceful if we'd disarm." "But you are carrying a gun" 'Yes Everybody is waitin' fur everybody else to disarm first. I'm kind o' afraid this reluctance an suspicion is goin' to start some hard feelin's."

Life and Character Reading

FEBRUARY 19.

The horoscope shows that the governing sign of this birthdate is Pisces, indicated on the Zodiac as the Fishes, while the governing planet is Jupiter.

This person will occupy a position of responsibility. Large sums of money will pass through his hands which belongs to others.

The nature is very trustworthy and honest.

Jupiter, the god of fortune, will favor making changes in business or in the home on and after August 12.

The birthstone is a moonstone. The greatest success will be found in law, in art, in music and business projects.

Many famous actors are born under the planet Jupiter and public life is well favored for this birthdate.

All the Difference.

A young girl who had been born and brought up in a boarding-house atmosphere was suddenly transplanted into a wealthy home. After she had been there a month a friend of her patroness said: "I expect you notice a great difference between your present and your former surroundings?" "Oh, yes," said the girl. "There, when a man and a girl walk out together, everybody always says, 'Will he marry her?' Here they say, 'Will she have him?'"

CLEARWATER GETS 30 DAY SENTENCE

Walden Married Man Who Ran Away With Daughter of Bridgeport Boarding Mistress Is Silent in Court.

As the culmination of a recent runaway match with Miss Emma J. Hall of No. 695 Beechwood avenue, Bridgeport, Conn., Allen C. Clearwater, 21, who has a wife and ten months old son in Walden, N. Y., was sentenced to 30 days in jail Friday. Clearwater, who had been a boarder at the home of Miss Hall's parents, had failed to pay his board bill and it was upon this charge that he was tried and convicted in the city court by Judge Frederic A. Bartlett.

Although Miss Hall left a note to her mother when she left several days ago, stating that she and Allen had eloped and were going to be married, Mrs. Hall had some strong suspicions that all was not well and that Clearwater already had one wife. Her suspicions were quickly confirmed and the matter was reported to the police authorities.

Clearwater and the young woman were apprehended in Winsted and they had not been married. The girl was detained until her mother arrived there Wednesday and escorted her back home. Clearwater was brought back to Bridgeport on Thursday by Truant Officer Richard Larkin.

In the city court Friday Detective Edward Cronan, who had been working on the case, explained the details to Judge Bartlett. Clearwater declared that he had nothing to say regarding the charges against him. After the 30 days sentence was imposed, Bertillon measurements were taken of Clearwater. It is probable that he may be taken to Walden to face a charge of abandonment of his wife and son.

An Up-to-Date Concert.

Those Kingstonians who have been awaiting a concert of the best up-to-the-minute airs will satisfy their desire if they set aside the evening of February 23 and go to the armory, where the Shriners will present the celebrated Edward Brown colored orchestra of New York city as features of the concert which precedes the dancing. For a full hour from 8 to 9 this collection of musical stars from the Southland will alternate with Muller's orchestra and deliver Broadway songs, tantalizing banjo selections, and whistling solos by Mr. Brown. For a single dollar you may be fascinated by this concert and then, if you wish, participate in the dancing which follows. And all the time you will be aiding the little children with neither father or mother who are forced to come under the protection of the Industrial Home.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Michael Karabetrich, an Austrian, aged 50 years, died of heart disease in Cementon Thursday. The body was taken to Catskill for burial Friday.

Ruth H., infant daughter of Herman and Anna Brandt, died this morning at the family residence, No. 153 Hunter street, aged 1 year. Funeral Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence with interment in Montrepose cemetery.

Mrs. John Larkin died at her home on South Main street, Ellenville, on Friday morning, February 18, after a lingering illness, aged about 70 years. Mrs. Larkin had been a resident of Ellenville during her entire life and was an estimable friend and neighbor. She is survived by her husband, one son, William Larkin of this village, and three daughters, two of whom are married, and Miss Lily Larkin at home.

The funeral of Samuel A. Adams of Summitville was held at the late home on Saturday at 1.30 p. m. The funeral party will come by train to Ellenville where they will be met by Wawarsing Lodge, No. 582, F. and A. M., who will act as an escort to the Fantinekill cemetery and have charge of the services at that place. Mr. Adams had been a member of Wawarsing Lodge for nearly fifty years and was held in the highest esteem and respect by his brethren.

Glasco, Feb. 19.—The funeral of Addison Longendyke of Brooklyn, N. Y., a former well known and much respected resident of this village, was held Wednesday at 11:30 a. m., at the Plattekill Church. The body was brought to Mt. Marion on the 11:08 a. m. train accompanied by the family and other Brooklyn relatives, where a hearse and covered sleighs were in waiting to convey them to the church. The services were conducted by the Rev. H. I. Hoag of Saugerties, assisted by the Rev. Gilbert D. Fisher of Tannersville, N. Y. Several members of Confidence Lodge of I. O. O. F., of which deceased was a member, acted as bearers. Interment in the Plattekill cemetery adjoining the church yard. Among friends in attendance were Frank Carle of Jersey City, Mr. and Mrs. James Frazer of Roseton, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitney and daughter, Helen, William Bailey, Mrs. Jennie Maginnis Baylor, Mrs. Streeter of Kingston, Mrs. G. D. Fisher of Tannersville, N. Y., Mrs. H. M. Whitaker of Mt. WANTS TO KNOW WHAT RAFLER WANTS

Before Judge Hasbrouck this morning, a motion was made by Arthur C. Connelly, as attorney for Griffin A. Hart, to compel Solomon Rafler to furnish a bill of particulars in a suit for $72 for services which he has begun against Mr. Hart. Mr. Connelly said the plaintiff, Rafler, was a tailor who had been employed by Mr. Hart for some time before the holidays and had been paid weekly. Mr. Hart therefore desires to know the nature of the services for which he was sued. City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., said his father, Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier, had drawn the complaint for Rafler, who was a traveling salesman. He, the city judge, had tried to communicate with Rafler, but without success. Judge Hasbrouck directed that the bill of particulars be furnished by March 9.

HENRY JAMES.

NOTED AUTHOR IN SERIOUS CONDITION; NO HOPE OF RECOVERY.

London, Feb. 19.—The illness of Henry James, the author, is so serious that even a temporary improvement in his condition is not expected, but because of the nature of his malady it cannot be said to be immediately critical.

Laughable Mistake.

A very popular preacher once had a brother so much like him that few people knew one from the other. One day he went to see his aged parents, and, the occasion being some family festival, he expected his brother to be there likewise. On entering the room, he stepped forward to greet his brother with all the heartiness which a long separation engendered, and found, from a mirror at the other end of the room, that he was offering his hand to himself!

Sleep of Men and Women.

Women go to sleep less quickly than men, but they sleep more soundly and longer. For a short period of time—not more than about half an hour in each night—a man gets into a state of sleep which is more profound than a woman's, but he comes out of this with a rush and sleeps more lightly than the woman during the latter part of the night. His waking is more gradual and he does not become fully awake so rapidly.

ATKINS REPORTS ON MOROSINI CASE

The report of D. G. Atkins, as referee in the suit brought by Guilia Morosini against Arthur M. Werner, to annul her marriage to the defendant, was filed with Judge Hasbrouck in the special term of the supreme court this morning, at which time a motion to confirm the referee's report, which is in favor of the plaintiff, was made by Spooner & Cotton, counsel for the plaintiff, and was not opposed by Henry S. Dottenheim, counsel for the defendant.

The case attracted much attention in New York city recently, when hearings were in progress before Referee Atkins. Guilia Morosini is the daughter of a wealthy Italian banker, who is now dead, and is reputed to be worth more than two million dollars. Werner, formerly was a New York policeman, whose wife, Alice Redding Werner, obtained a divorce from him in Nevada. Several years ago Mr. Cotton, one of Guilia Morosini's counsel, advised her that the Nevada divorce was not legal, and before Judge Hasbrouck, Mr. Spooner, who is a son of Former United States Senator Spooner, stated that there was no question but that Mr. and Mrs. Werner, although they never had lost their residence in New York state, had gone to Nevada, of which state they claimed they were residents, for the express purpose of allowing Mrs. Werner to obtain a divorce.

Judge Hasbrouck said there might be a question as to whether Guilia Morosini had been guilty of complicity in the Nevada divorce in which case there was the further question whether equity would deal with a statutory action.

Mr Spooner replied that Guilia Morosini had been examined before the referee and had stated that she did not know what money Werner had when he went to Nevada; she had let him have money right along, but she had absolutely no knowledge of what amount of money he had retained. A certain amount had been paid to Mrs. Werner.

Judge Hasbrouck said he would read the testimony and the referee's findings, and would reserve decision.

HOWARD DREW

DREW TO COMPETE IN A. A. U. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

New York, Feb. 19.—Howard P. Drew, the negro sprinting marvel, will compete in the indoor A. A. U. championships, which will be held next month, providing starting blocks are used. Drew has written to Secretary Fred W. Rubien, saying that he expected to be east again about the time the title events will take place, and will be pleased to run under the above conditions.

The great sprinter goes on to say: "I do not want you to think I am telling you how to run your meet, but I cannot take any chances with my leg, which has bothered me so far the past year, running on a smooth floor without spikes or a starting block." It is only at the start that a sprinter needs to be careful. When once well away from the mark the smooth floor does not bother the sprinter who runs without spikes.

Sofia, the Bulgarian Capital.

No city in the east has undergone such a magic transformation as Sofia. Prior to the emancipation of the Bulgars it was a small Turkish town of 20,000, with narrow, dirty streets. There was practically no trade, and the people were in a hideous state of poverty. The city which has now risen up has a population of about 125,000 and is rapidly becoming one of the best in eastern Europe. Architecturally it has far more claim to respect than is at first apparent. The streets, which are well paved and beautifully clean, are too narrow for the adequate display of the fine proportions of the czar's palace, the National theater, the general postoffice, the war office, the Bulgarian National bank, the William Gladstone High School For Boys, the Grand Hotel de Bulgarie, the National Agricultural bank, the Sobranje and many other public buildings which are of fine sandstone. The ecclesiastical edifices are of remarkable beauty, especially the new cathedral.—Review of Reviews.

A New Star

By EDNA T. STEWART

From childhood I had a passion for personating some character. In other words, I was born with dramatic inclinations. When quite a little girl I read Shakespeare's plays that I found in my father's library and took pleasure in spouting the lines of the heroines. One day I would be Juliet leaning over the famous balcony; another I would be Queen Catherine; another, Rosalind.

When I was fifteen years old my father died, leaving my mother with six children to support and without the means to do so. We all had to do something to put money into the family treasury, even if it were only the very smallest amount. Very naturally I chose the stage. That is, I wished to go on the stage, but how to get there I did not know. Had I been a boy I might have gone from one theater to another till I found a position as supernumerary and from that vantage point watched for an opportunity to take small minor parts. Being a girl, I could not do this.

How I finally got on the stage doesn't pertain to this story, which deals with an opportunity to get into public favor. I am speaking of the days when real plays were enacted on the stage, before the coming on of the scenic wonders, burlesques and the like that have driven the drama away. I had been taking minor parts for several years and had been an understudy for one part. Had the actress under whom I was studying ever been sufficiently indisposed to permit me to take her place it might have enabled me to make a hit. But she never failed to appear.

A celebrated playwright wrote a play which he called "Joan of Arc." He wrote the part of Joan, expecting that Mme. G., then the most remarkable tragedienne on the stage, would impersonate the Maid of Orleans. Members of our profession when they once climb to the top round of the ladder are apt to forget the snubs they have endured when they were struggling on the lower rounds and to delight in showing their independence, or perhaps it is the memory of these very snubs that gives them a desire to exercise their own sweet will. At any rate, Mme. G. without giving any reason refused to play the part.

The author of the play was in a distressing position. He had spent many months on it; he had written it especially to display the remarkable histrionic ability of Mme. G., and there was no other actress who, so far as was known, could aspire to play it. The playwright's friends did all they could to win Mme. G. over, but with no success. She remained obdurate.

One evening I was surprised at a call from an actor who was to have appeared in "Joan of Arc" and had been greatly disappointed that the play could not be produced. Without explaining the object of his visit he asked me to read a few lines from several of the parts of Shakespeare's heroines. When I had finished he left me as abruptly as he had come. The next day he came again with the author of "Joan," and I was obliged to read the parts I had read before. They left with me the play that had been written for Mme. G. and asked me to learn it. They came again when I had done so, heard me recite certain passages and delightedly told me that they wished me to assume the principal role.

When the time for a rehearsal came round an audience of some twenty or thirty persons, mostly connected with the stage, was present. What was my surprise to see among them Mme. G. I inferred that she had come to see if, indeed, there was a person who could take her place. Her presence did wonders in spurring me to do my best. I received great applause, and Mme. G. clapped her hands languidly. This faint praise spurred me on still further, and I surpassed myself.

When the play was finished Mme. G. went to the author and said:

I looked at him, wondering what he would say. A light came into his eye as he replied:

"Madame, this play was written for you, supposing that you were the only woman in existence who could take the part. Your refusal instead of being a misfortune has turned out a benefit. A new star has appeared above the horizon. You have enjoyed exclusive prominence for a long while. From this hour you will have to divide it with another."

Mme. G. disappeared, and I, running to the author, threw my arms about his neck.

Her friends endeavored to persuade him to throw me over and give the part to Mme. G., not that she could play it any better than I, but on account of the eclat she would give his work. But he stood firm for me.

I nerved myself for the first performance, realizing that I must stand or fall by it. The story had got abroad, and the house was packed, largely by theatrical people, many of whom had suffered from Mme. G.'s selfishness. I forgot everything except that I was Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans, and throughout the evening received enthusiastic applause. The author's prediction was verified. I was indeed a new theatrical star. From that time my reputation began to grow, and that of Mme. G., who was getting old, began to wane.

Nary a One.

"If I ever move to the country I'm going to live in some town that's got a name that the railroad brakemen are able to pronounce distinctly. Then my friends won't have so much trouble finding me." "That's a very good idea, old man. The only trouble is, there ain't no such town."

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

They may slam and they may hammer
Old Bat Nelson if they will.
But the "borin-in" old warrior
Lingers in the limelight still.

* * * *

Just exactly 20 years ago next Tuesday Battling Nelson entered the prize ring in a contest against a circus kid. And Bat is going to celebrate it by meeting for the fourth time his ancient enemy—Ad Wolgast—the man who took from Bat the championship by battering him to a helpless pulp.

Twenty years a fighter—and not satisfied! A strange person is Bat. He loves to fight—and he loves the game. Pecuniary reward isn't his real motive in meeting Wolgast. Bat has enough money stored away to support him for the rest of his days. He is meeting Wolgast with but one purpose in mind—to beat him as he beat Bat in the long ago.

"Only one man ever gave me a regular lamming," Bat told us a year or so ago. "That fellow was Ad Wolgast, and I'm out to get him—to secure revenge. I'll never quit the ring until I hand him a lacing to start with and a knockout wallop as a finisher."

The Longest Slide.

Out in the wilds of Spokane the folks call your attention to two ball players—Ty Lober and "Rube" Evans, who jointly made the longest slide on record—501 3-5 feet.

It was figured that Tyrus Cobb, who once slid 15 feet or so held the record in the sliding line—but behold the achievement of Lober and Evans.

In the neighborhood of Fossil, Oregon, is a big hill. Lober and Evans camped there this winter. It snowed heavily one day. The next day our heroes ascended to the very top of the hill and watched the merry villagers coasting down. Having no sled, the ball players took unto themselves a long, flat board, seated themselves thereon and started down the hill.

Hardly had their descent begun when the board slipped from under them. Their impetus was too great to enable them to stop. There was nothing left for them to do but slide the rest of the way—on the seat of their trousers. They did that very thing to the utter ruin of the said trousers and the hilarious amusement of the fossil natives.

Curious—and amused—by-standers later measured the distance of the slide and the figures are as above, 501 3-5 feet.

Can anyone dig up records to beat that slide

Ping Won't Come Back.

"Ping" Bodie, undoubtedly the most joshed person that ever wore big league spangles, refuses to come back to the majors from the minors where he made a good record last year.

Bodie was the butt of a thousand jokes when he wore the White Sox uniform. He was kidded in poem and prose; he was the first thought of humorous paragraphers—and the last. No one on the White Sox roster ever thought of a new joke without trying it out on "Ping."

Not only that, but 'Ping's" physical makeup was of the kind that provoked merriment everywhere he went. He was short and squatty—a roly-poly sort of person. He waddled as he walked—and he waddled as he ran, and because of this his every movement on the ball field caused laughter.

All this ridicule hurt "Ping." He went to the Sox heralded as a great slugger. And he was naturally. But the kidding that was handed to him and the knowledge that he was looked upon as the unconscious comedian of baseball, affected his playing. "Ping" might have become one of the greatest players in the game had he been treated differently, but, as it was, he fell down in his work and was sent back to the minors.

When he heard last fall that some of the big league clubs were figuring on giving him another chance, "Ping" said:

"No more big league stuff for mine. They kidded me out of the majors—and I'm through with them. I am content to play in the minors because here the fans are kindly in their treatment toward me—and so are the players."

HIGH SCHOOL WINS FROM HUDSON 92 TO 3

Friday evening the maroon and white cleaned up a basketball five from Hudson high school by a score of 92 to 3.

The visitors played all right for a team that has had little practice and apparently no organization, but when it is considered that the Hudson five boast of three victories out of the four games they have played this season it is clearly seen that some praise is due the home team for rolling up the total it did.

Early in the first half Dolson received a slight injury to his knee but this by no means put him out of the game, although it did necessitate the calling of time out for Kingston. Hudson did not make a single basket in the first half and only shot one foul successfully, leaving the score 40 to 1.

At the beginning of the second half the maroon and white wishing to show some courtesy to the visitors took every one of her players out of the game and placed Riseley, Silverman, Wheeler, Mones and Duncan in the field. The visitors put Baisten in at left guard and changed BeVier to center. However, these changes by no means tended to even the score for the passwork and general playing of Kingston's second line-up was even better than that of the first five. Later with five minutes to play Betts and Howard were substituted for Riseley and Mones.

The special feature of the contest was the exceptional passwork and teamwork of the local five. The whole squad appears to be in tip top shape and everything points to a great game with the conquering Poughkeepsie five next Monday evening. The little affair last evening may well be called a preliminary game before the greatest struggle of the season. Both the Bridge City five and the maroon and white know that each have powerful line-ups, and both high schools are priming themselves for the struggle so that the spectators who witness the battle next Monday evening will see absolutely the most fast and fierce contest staged on the high school gymnasium this season.

In Friday's game the officials were C. H. Beckwith, referee; J. Schoonmaker, timekeeper, and Stelle, scorekeeper. The summary was as follows:

Lasher's New Market.

P. A. Lasher, who for many years conducted a grocery store on Wall street, and who at present is owner of a meat market on Cedar street, will soon occupy the store on Broadway occupied by John Miller, the ice cream dealer, and will establish a public market, selling fruit, meat and vegetables. The opening of this store will take place the first of March, the Cedar street store being operated as a branch. There is no doubt that a store of such a nature in the center of the city will be a success, with honest values, such as Mr. Lasher offer, the drawing card.

Endeavor Meetings Resumed.

After having been omitted for the past few Sundays on account of the evangelistic meetings which were held in this city, the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Reformed Church will resume their meetings on Sunday afternoon in the chapel at 5:15 o'clock.

Painting on Silk, Satin or Velvet.

To paint on silk, satin and velvet in water colors, use the colors in the ordinary water colors in the usual way, but instead of water use gum arabic dissolved in a little warm water. The liquid should not be too thin. Use Chinese white to make the colors lighter if necessary, after they are mixed with the solution. Care should be taken not to have too much color on the brush otherwise the paint will run into the silk.

Cooking Course at the Firm's Expense.

A well-known firm of biscuit makers of London and Edinburgh have come to an interesting decision in regard to girls who leave to be married after being in their service for over three years. Such ex-employees will be sent to a school of cookery for three weeks at the firm's expense, and will receive full wages while they are taking the course.

SAUGERTIES.

FIELD OF SPORTS.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Feb. 19.—The first detachment of the Yankees will leave for the spring training camp at Macon tomorrow. Manager Donovan and Duke Farrell, who will assist in the training, will accompany the squad.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—It costs Charles Wegham, owner of the Cubs, $550,000 to play a game of golf. He went out to the links, met James Gilmore, and took a flier in the Federal League. His investment cost this amount.

Syracuse, Feb. 19.—In a tame bout here last night Frankie Nail of Allentown went ten rounds to a draw with Frankie Nelson of Buffalo. Nail was 12 pounds heavier than his opponent.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Jess Willard, who has been laid up with a cold, continues to improve and expects to resume training for the Moran bout next week.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Joe Stecher, Nebraska wrestler, threw two opponents last night in less than five minutes. Orlando Lupo went down in 1 minute and 5 seconds, and Louis Christensen in 3 minutes and 10 seconds.

Steamboat Springs, Col., Feb. 19.—Ragner Omtvedt holds a new worlds record for ski jumping today. The new mark is 192.9 feet, 15.9 feet better than the former record.

Facts About Dynamite.

In spite of all that has been said and written to the contrary, many people still have the idea that dynamite is exceedingly dangerous stuff to take liberties with, and that it will explode at the least shock. This is a mistake. Nothing less than a tremendous shock will make dynamite explode, and this shock is obtained by exploding a mixture of nitric acid, mercury and alcohol, which in turn explodes the dynamite.

Small Successes Satisfy Many.

There are some so low but they have their triumphs. Small successes suffice for small souls.—Bovee.
